REVENUE PACKAGE REJUGGLED . . .

One-Cent Gas Tax Hike Gains Favor

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Tuesday rejuggled its proposed highway revenue package to reduce the state gasoline tax increase by one-half cent a gallon and allocate to road construction all sales tax revenue from motor vehicles.

Pending at adjournment was a proposal from Sen. George Syas of Omaha which would wipe out the recommended $6.50 boost in automobile registration fees.

The net effect of Tuesday's action was to increase slightly — by an estimated $150,000 — the proposed hike in annual highway revenue.

Up $19.5 Million

Total funds for allocation to the state, cities and counties would be increased by about $19.5 million a year if all pending road and street revenue bills are eventually enacted.

The Syas amendment, however, would reduce that figure by about $4,490,000.

Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, chief sponsor of the highway bills, said the result would be unmet road and street needs at all levels.

Syas said he is trying to "protect the little fellow" from too great an increase in taxes and fees.

"You're standing him up on his head and shaking out every nickel he's got in him," Syas protested.

Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton said Nebraskans have expressed solid support for the 20-year highway program proposed by the roads study committee, and "we're on safe ground supporting the package."

Here's what lawmakers did to change highway financing bills when they reached the second stage of floor consideration:

—reduced the 1½ cent increase in gasoline taxes to one cent a gallon; proposed by Sen. Henry Pedersen Jr. of Omaha, adopted 28-6.

—increased sales tax revenue for roads by dedicating all the sales tax collected on motor vehicles, rather than 50% of it; proposed by Sen. Rick Budd of Nebraska City, adopted 25-10.

—guaranteed that every county will receive at least as much highway user revenue in 1970 as it did in 1967, a move which will allocate another $870,000 in state funds to the counties; proposed by Warner, accepted 33-1.

—reduced the proposed registration fee increase for local and local commercial trucks from 50% to 30% of the commercial truck registration fee; proposed by Sen. C. W. Holmquist of Oakland, adopted 27-10.

Distance Expanded

The Holmquist amendment also expands the distance in which trucks may operate outside the city limits under local and local commercial licenses from 10 to 20 miles for the former, and from 5 to 8 miles for the latter.

The effect of those amendments generally was to return the revenue bills to a form more consistent with the highway study committee's original recommendations. They had been altered at the first stage of floor debate.

Under Pedersen's proposal, the state gasoline tax would be increased from 7½ to 8½ cents a gallon effective January 1.

The tax on other motor fuels, including diesel fuel, would also be increased one cent a gallon.

Two Dissenters

LB1300, the motor fuel tax bill, was sent on its way to final reading on a 31-2 vote, with Sens. Lester Harsh of McCook and Syas dissenting.

LB1303, the allocation bill which would now take an estimated $7.3 million a year from the general fund for street and road construction, was advanced on a voice vote after adoption of the Budd amendment.

The $7.3 million figure assumes a 2½% sales tax rate.

Budd said placing added emphasis on sales tax revenue and reducing the bite on the gasoline tax would be "more palatable and more equitable," and in line with highway study recommendations.

Several Object

Several senators objected to dipping into the general fund, a policy which will have a direct effect on sales and income tax rates.

Harsh attempted to eliminate any general fund financing, but was rebuffed on an 8-18 vote.

Senators accepted, on a 19-9 vote, a suggestion from Sen. Herb Duis of Gothenburg that all 12 bills in the highway package be held up to a final reading vote for one last full explanation from their sponsors.

SNCC Gets Rid Of 'Nonviolent'

New York (AP) — The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee announced Tuesday it has dropped "nonviolent" from its name and put H. Rap Brown back in charge. The new name is Student National Coordinating Committee — still SNCC.

Brown, 25, and Muhammad Hunt, identified as head of SNCC's new Revolutionary Political Council, appeared at a news conference in the organization's headquarters in Holy Apostles Episcopal Church.

Kennedy Appears Dazed At Funeral

KENNEDY . . . leaves for funeral.

Plymouth, Pa. (AP) — The body of Mary Jo Kopechne, a young secretary, was buried Tuesday on a steep hillside in the Pennsylvania coal country.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., whose whole promising political future has been thrown into question by her death, looked on, sometimes seeming dazed.

Then he flew back to the tight seclusion of his summer home on Cape Cod, still keeping to himself details of the nightmarish night off Martha's Vineyard.

She Drowned

Miss Kopechne, 28, was drowned late Friday or early Saturday when a car driven by Kennedy plunged off a narrow bridge on Chappaquiddick Island.

The 37-year-old senator, widely looked on as the leading contender for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972, escaped relatively unharmed For the funeral of the former Robert F. Kennedy campaign worker, Kennedy made his first public appearance since the accident wearing a light neck brace or collar.

Kennedy flew from Cape Cod to this northeastern Pennsylvania area in a private plane, accompanied by his wife Joan; Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy, and two close friends, Reps. John V. Tunney and John C. Culver.

The streets of the dingy little town were lined with residents as the bell began tolling in St. Vincent's Roman Catholic Church.

The three Kennedys sat in a third row pew as the Rt. Rev. Msgr. William Burchill said the requiem mass over the mahogany-colored coffin that lay only a few feet from Edward Kennedy.

He appeared in tight self-control through the mass, only occasionaly blinking his eyes or passing a hand over them. He barely mouthed the words of the mass, but did go forward to take holy communion with his wife and sister-in-law, remaining kneeling for long moments after returning to his seat.

Most conspicuous in the thousand or so mourners and onlookers in Plymouth was an impressive roster of Kennedy staff men, both Robert's and Edward's. Two were pallbearers.

After the funeral, the cortege, picking up outsidders along the way, wound its way up the steep hill to St. Vincent's cemetery where the body of Miss Kopechne was buried after a brief service with the Kennedys again looking on.

Senator To Make Statement

Hyannis Port, Mass. (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy apparently reversed himself Tuesday and said he would issue a statement at "the appropriate time" about the auto accident he was in that claimed the life of a young blonde secretary.

Kennedy made the remark as he alighted from a plane in neighboring Hyannis upon his return from the funeral of the secretary, Miss Mary Jo Kopechne, 28.

Sources close to Kennedy had said earlier in the day that Kennedy might never issue any public statement on the wreck. The sources commented in a series of interviews.

Most of the newsmen who met Kennedy upon his return didn't hear the comment, but replay of an NBC News video tape showed Kennedy was asked by a newsman about a statement.

He responded: "This isn't the (hesitation) — this is the day of the funeral. This isn't the appropriate time, but I will at the appropriate time."

The sources had said Kennedy decided against issuing any form of statement after a series of conferences Saturday night and early Sunday with half a dozen friends and associates.

The sources said the decision against making a statement was Kennedy's. The reason for it, and his subsequent apparent reversal, were known to no one but him.

4 Russian Scientists Visit NU, Promote Cooperation, See Thermonuclear Tests

One of four Russian scientists visting the University of Nebraska department of physics, said Tuesday that he hoped cooperation "will continue to increase" among scientists of different nations.

Yuri N. Demkov of Leningrad State University, said he and his companions chose to visit NU because of its internationally recognized experimentation in thermonuclear power and other developments in physical science.

The four are part of a delegation of 13 Russian scientists taking part in the International Conference on the Physics of Electronic and Atomic Collisions to be held in Boston late this month.

Demkov, who said he preferred not to discuss politics with reporters, did emphasize his support of "more cooperation among the world's scientists."

In speaking of past international scientific meetings, Demkov spoke of the "many personal contacts" he has had with both United States and British scientists, and said that a goal of all scientists should be to increase the world's knowledge.

Of the Apollo 11's successful moon walk, Demkov said the venture was a "splendid achievement," which came as no surprise to the Soviet Union.

He also mentioned his homeland's space ventures which he said included the first satellite, and the first hard and soft moon landings.

Demkov, in responding to a query concerning the degree of student unrest in Russia, said his country had "no such problem."

"We solve such problems in advance the best way," he said.

Accompanying Demkov were V. V. Afrosimov, I. P. Flaks and S. V. Bobashev, all of the A. F. Ioffe Physical-technical Institute in Leningrad.

The visitors took part in two open seminars Tuesday.

Council Eyes City Sales Tax To Ease Sewer Project Jam

City Council members Tuesday evening raised the possibility of using a city sales tax to expedite construction of a backlog of storm sewer projects.

Use of the sales tax was suggested by Councilwoman Mrs. Helen Boosalis as one way to pay for the projects. She suggested enacting a one-half cent tax, possibly effective Jan. 1.

Her suggestion met with no opposition from other council members during a budget hearing on public works requests.

The council decided to give the idea further consideration with a decision likely within the next month.

Not Enough

The sales tax discussion began after Councilman Tom Allman complained that "the city is not spending enough money each year for storm sewers."

Allman said that the $20 million backlog of storm sewer projects could not be handled by $1 million appropriations each year.

"It is a miserable problem and someone has to decide how we shall get out of the dilemma," the councilman said.

The council must approve the city budget by Aug. 26

$1 Million Included

The mayor's recommended budget included $1 million through general obligation bonds to pay for certain storm sewer projects and $100,000 in general revenue to pay for subsidies to paving districts and new subdivisions and for minor projects to relieve small drainage problems.

Council members said that the amount was not enough and instructed Public Works Director Robert Obering to come back with an increased budget.

Finance Director James Mallon said a one-half cent tax would probably give the city $1.9 million in revenue during a one-year period.

Mrs. Boosalis said the issuance of general obligation bonds for storm sewers was not intended to reduce the

Nixon Predicts Finding Of Aliens Before 2000

Washington (AP) — President Nixon set up Tuesday a superwelcome for the Apollo 11 astronauts, predicted their successors will discover life in space, and then mingled with baseball's greats before heading for a Pacific rendezvous with the returning spacemen.

The President was obviously elated with the success of the history-making moon walk — and, as a congressional leader put it, he was fired with evangelistic fervor for his forthcoming tour of seven countries.

Nixon departed for San Francisco early after the All-Star baseball game that he had planned to attend was rained out. From San Francisco, he heads Wednesday for the mid-Pacific to be on hand for Thursday's splashdown of Apollo 11. From there he goes on to Asia and Romania.

Parades, Dinner

The stateside welcome for the space heroes, as laid out by Nixon, will feature ticker tape parades in New York and Chicago Aug. 13 plus a formal dinner in Los Angeles as his guests that night.

Nixon was admittedly brimming with optimism about the future — "this is no time for the pessimists," he said in talking to some 2,000 foreign high school-age students visiting the White House.

He said he believes that by the year 2000 "we on this earth will have visited new worlds where there will be a form of life."

He gave no further detail on this, although he mentioned the prospect of ascertaining "what may or may not be on the moon, on Mars, on Venus." Just what beyond-the-moon exploration the United States will conduct has not yet been officially decided.

However, Nixon voiced hope that other countries will join America in the "next great venture of space." And he said it was a sad thing that about half the world' people — the Russians and the Red Chinese — were not allowed by their governments to see live television coverage of the moon landing.

"I want the time to come when the Chinese people and the Russian people and all the people of the world can walk together and talk together," he said.

Moon Visitors Have Holiday

. . . TO GET HERO'S WELCOME

Space Center, Houston (AP) — Enjoying a holiday in space, the homeward bound Apollo 11 explorers watched "the Earth getting larger and larger" Tuesday and beamed a telecast to a world elated over man's first visit to the moon.

Neil A. Armstrong, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins rested from two days of making history as their spacecraft sped out of the moon's gravitational dominance and into the ever increasing tug of their home planet, where a hero's welcome awaited them.

Collins The Comic

During the 16-minute color telecast, Collins, showing the flair of a comic, filled a spoon with water and then turned the spoon over. The water stayed in the spoon.

Then he moved the spoon and caught the floating glibules of water in his mouth.

"That's not the way we usually drink," he said, and then showed the water gun the spacemen use to squirt water directly into their mouths.

Duke Blows It

When the telecast started, capsule communicator Charles Duke saw a white half-disc on his television monitor in mission control and reported: "We see the Earth in the center of the screen."

There was a long silence before Aldrin, from 180,000 miles away, corrected him dryly: "Believe that's where we just came from."

Earlier, Aldrin, apparently refreshed by his first good rest since walking the moon with Armstrong, told mission control:

"All very quiet. Nice to sit here and watch the earth getting larger and larger and the moon smaller and smaller."

The spacecraft passed into Earth's gravity control at 12:39 p.m. and Collins kidded controllers about having to explain gravitational difference to newsmen.

About 8 Hours' Sleep

The astronauts awoke on their own and Armstrong reported each crewman had about eight hours' sleep.

A rocket burst, which lasted only ten seconds, came at 2:57 p.m. while Apollo 11 was 194,000 miles from Earth and about 40,000 miles from the moon. Officials said the course correction went as planned.

The astronauts then put the spacecraft into a slow spin. The three-revolution-per-hour spin distributes heat from the direct rays of the sun evenly over the spacecraft.

About 18 days of quarantine await the astronauts after Thursday's splashdown in the Pacific. The space trio will be kept behind biological barriers to assure they brought no moon germs back to earth.

Laser Beams Miss

Meanwhile, space officials at Houston said laser beams shot from earth still had not been able to hit a reflector left on the moon by Armstrong and Aldrin. A seismometer also left there appeared to be dying after sending unexplained signals to Earth.

John W. Small, a space agency engineer, said the seismometer was overheating and probably would die in the heat of the lunar noon, when temperatures reach 250 degrees above zero.

He guessed the device, designed to measure lunar tremors, was damaged by the blast from the rocket engine that lifted Armmstrong and Aldrin off the moon.

Small said the seismometer recorded several distinct events," but they have not been analyzed.

Apollo 11 whips into the earth's atmosphere early Thursday morning.

Blazing white hot as friction chars its outer heat shield, the spacecraft will re-enter the atmosphere in a long arcing fall over the Asian landmass to the landing site southwest of Hawaii

Job Goals Attainable

Washington (UPI) — Director Donald Rumsfeld of the Office of Economic Opportunity said that the goal of finding economic opportunity for all Americans was no more distant or less urgent than exploring space.

Tobacco Promise Conditional

Washington — At a Senate hearing, a tobacco industry spokesman promised to end all cigarette advertising on television and radio by September 1970. A condition was attached, however, which asked that Congress grant immunity from antitrust laws for the manufacturers.

Wild Party Is Planned

Space Center, Houston (AP) — The loudest, longest and biggest splashdown frolic in history is being planned to celebrate the return Thursday of the Apollo 11 from the moon.

The splashdown party, a form of moon madness, is a festive tradition here in this space community, home of the astronauts and the Manned Spacecraft Center.

"This could be a lulu," said one hotel manager as he set about preparing for what he described as the "biggest party we've ever had here."

Going To Be Wild

"It's going to be wild, boy!" said a receptionist at another hotel.

Fran Rainey, a pretty ash blonde secretary, put it this way:

"With this flight being so historic, the parties willl probably be more uninhibited than ever . . . Somebody was saying the other day that we ought to just rope of NASA 1."

NASA 1, the main highway through the space community, sometimes resembles Times Square as splashdown revelers skip from one hotel party to another.

Just Sees Results

"The only reason I panic at splashdown parties is because I'm afraid I might run over some drunk on NASA 1," said a receptionist at the Holiday Inn. "I don't attend the parties. I just see the results."

Nothing here has ever rivaled the celebration of the Apollo 8 moon-orbital flight last Christmas, and some say nothing ever will — unless it happens Thursday.

NASA 1 took on overtones of a Mardi Gras last December. Traffic slowed to a halt. Motorists abandoned their cars and joined the happy throngs roaming from party to party.

Cars Towed Away

The highway patrol and an irate property owner summoned wreckers to haul away illegally parked cars. No car owner could have cared less.

"You couldn't enter a hotel without someone shoving a drink in your hand," said one observer. "The lid really popped off. It was like a pressure cooker . . ."

"I don't know what to expect exactly — one big ball, I guess," said Mrs. Jo Ann Wunderlick, a Ramada Inn receptionist. "It'll be unbelievable, though."

United States To Take War Gas Off Okinawa

World News

Washington (AP) — The Pentagon, acknowledging for the first time that the United States has deployed war gases overseas, announced Tuesday it is removing its chemical weapons from Okinawa.

"Preparations are being made to remove certain chemical munitions, including some toxic agents, which were moved to Okinawa several years ago as a result of decisions made in 1961 and 1963," the Defense Department said.

The United States acted to defuse potential diplomatic problems with Japan four days after news reports said that 24 U.S. military and civilian personnel were affected when a container of nerve gas broke open at a U.S. base on Okinawa.

Until Tuesday, the Pentagon acknowledged only that there had been a mishap, and that the U.S. personnel had been returned to duty after brief medical observation.

GB Nerve Gas

The new announcement by Daniel Z. Henkin, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, gave a fuller account of the July 8 incident and disclosed that it involved a nerve gas called GB, described as a toxic, nonpersistent, quick-acting chemical nerve agent which can injure by inhalation or by penetrating the skin.

The Pentagon announcement took pains to stress that the chemical munitions were sent to Okinawa during the Kennedy administration and that "no toxic chemical agents have been deployed overseas since Secretary Melvin R. Laird took office" six months ago.

At the same time, Henkin refused to discuss whether the United States has positioned chemical and radiological weapons elsewhere overseas, but he did state "unequivocally that there are no U.S. biological weapons stored overseas."

Biological weapons are for use in germ warfare.

Deployed Abroad

Despite official silence, it is known that the United States has placed chemical warfare agents in strategic places abroad since the 1950s under a policy that such weapons form part of the U.S. deterrent arsenal.

In a formal statement read to newsmen, Laird recalled that when he became defense secretary, "I asked for immediate reports concerning CBW activities" because "I felt it essential to review the entire matter."

A National Security Council review of the entire U.S. chemical-biological-radiological warfare program, ordered by President Nixon at Laird's request, is being pressed, the Pentagon said.

Included in this study is the question of overseas deployment of war bases.

Henkin said the 23 U.S. soldiers and one civilian employe involved in the July 8 incident are "well and going about their normal duties."

U.S. Plans Orbiting Space Station In 1972

Space Center, Houston (AP) — America's first manned, earth-orbiting space station will be launched in 1972 to study the sun and stars, the space agency said Tuesday.

The announcement marked a change in plans which originally called for the first space workshop to be launched in 1971 for medical studies and less elaborate scientific experiments.

Under the new schedule, NASA said, the first two stages of a Saturn 5 rocket — the type used to launch Apollo 11 toward the moon — will orbit an unfueled third stage outfitted on the ground with an experiment called an Apollo telescope mount (ATM).

The ATM will permit astronauts to study the sun and stars above the veil of earth's atmosphere. The atmosphere blocks out high-frequency light waves which scientists need to learn a star's age.

Such information could provide clues to the origin of the universe.

The workshop will be launched unmanned into a circular earth orbit 250 miles high, NASA said. About one day later, a three-man crew will be orbited by a smaller Saturn 1B rocket to rendezvous and dock with the workshop and occupy it for 28 days.

Later crews will revisit the laboratory for missions lasting up to 56 days, the space agency said.

Under previous plans, astronauts in 1971 would have outfitted a spent second stage of a Saturn 1B in orbit to conduct biomedical and other scientific experiments. Several months later, in 1972, the ATM would have been launched unmanned by another Saturn 1B to automatically dock with the space station.

"The change in plans will permit simplification of the previously announced 1971 mission as well as augment the capability of that mission to perform space and earth-oriented research," NASA said.

Nixon Orders Spending Cuts To Balance Budget Inactions

©The New York Times

Washington — President Nixon ordered government wide expenditure reductions of $3.5 billion Tuesday to offset increases resulting from several factors, including actions and inactions by Congress.

Nixon disclosed that seven "uncontrollable" items in the budget, such as interest on the national debt and veterans' benefits, are now estimated at $2.5 billion higher than in his April budget review.

In addition, he said congressional actions and inactions in several areas — chief among them the failure so far to approve a postal rate increase — threaten to add "at least another billion dollars."

Although none of the congressional decisions is yet final, some of the anticipated postal revenue already has been lost because the proposed effective date of July 1 is past.

Budget Director Robert P. Mayo said there would be "very substantial" cuts in defense spending — "more than half" of the total $3.5 billion to be reduced.

Nixon said he was determined to "hold the line" on the proposed April spending figure of $192.9 billion — "a figure I still believe reflects a responsible fiscal policy in our highly inflationary environment."

The statement was issued in connection with the President's signature of a catch-all supplemental appropriations bill, technically applying to fiscal year 1969. The bill contained a new version of a congressionally imposed spending ceiling, which Nixon accepted.

The ceiling is put at $191.9 billion, or $1 billion below the President's figure, but it automatically rises and falls with actions and inactions by Congress.

In addition it can rise by as much as $2 billion if several specified "uncontrollables" exceed the original estimates, as they clearly will.

Draft Call Quota Up In Nebraska For September

Although the national draft call for September went down, the Nebraska draft quota for that month went up from its August total, according to the State Selective Service office.

For September, 264 men from Nebraska will be drafted. The quota for August was 239 and the lowest for the year was 175, July's quota from the state.

Draft Call 29,000

Washington (AP) — The Pentagon Tuesday issued a call to draft 29,000 men into the Army and Marine Corps in September.

This was 500 fewer than the August draft call.

The Army will get 27,500 of the September inductees while the remaining 1,500 will go into the Marine Corps.

Forecast Shows Good Weather For Splashdown

Aboard USS Hornet (AP) — Thursday will be a great day for a splashdown, says the recovery ship weatherman.

Lt. Cmdr. William Tasker Tuesday forecast calm waters and warm temperatures.

"We don't have any adverse forecast from now through end of mission," he said.

Small waves of one to three feet and swells at three to five feet are expected. Water temperature should be in the 80s and winds 10 to 15 knots.

Wheeler Finds Situation In South Vietnam 'Good'

Washington (AP) — Gen. Earle G. Wheeler returned from Vietnam Tuesday with a report on the war for President Nixon. It was secret, but indications were the military can go along with further troop reductions.

Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told reporters on his arrival at nearby Andrews Air Force Base, Md., "I must say that I find the situation good."

Wheeler, who spent four days sizing up the war, said the program to modernize and improve Vietnamese forces to take over more combat responsibility "is on schedule — as a matter of fact, ahead of schedule in some areas."

The four-star general would not forecast what he will recommend to Nixon, due to decide sometime in August whether to withdraw more than the 25,000 troops announced earlier this summer.

Wheeler said U.S. intelligence experts in Saigon told him of indications that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong are preparing for another series of attacks which would break a recent lull in battlefield activities.

"How heavy and how widespread these may be, we don't know," Wheeler said. He added that military leaders in Vietnam believe they can handle the situation.

"I found our commanders, and equally important, the senior Vietnamese commanders, were confident with their capability to deal with anything the enemy can do," he said.

The new attacks, Wheeler said, could come in late July or early August. A big offensive about that time could complicate Nixon administration efforts to accelerate further U.S. withdrawals.

Attorney General's Pay Hiked 50%; Law Training Center Wins Approval

By the Associated Press

Nebraska's Legislature voted a 50% increase in the attorney general's salary Tuesday, created a Nebraska Law Enforcement Training Center and approved a plan to pool transportation resources at the state government level.

But lawmakers said "no" to a pay boost for state railway commissioners, and rejected a plan under which the state and the City of Lincoln would have joined in a co-operative effort to construct a new "Hall of Justice" in Lincoln.

The judgments came via final reading votes on 14 measures, 12 of which were approved. The two bills which stumbled raised to nine the number of bills which have failed on final reading so far this session.

The measure increasing the attorney general's salary from $16,000 to $24,000 per year, effective when the next elected attorney general takes office, was approved 30-9. Sen. Eugene T. Mahoney of Omaha waas principal sponsor of the bill, LB78.

Needed 25 'Yes' Votes

A bill sponsored chiefly by Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, increasing the pay of railway commissioners from $12,000 to $14,000 per year, received a 22-17 failing vote. Twenty-five "yes" votes were needed.

A bill, LB493, increasing the salary of judges of the Nebraska Workmen's Compensation Court from $16,000 to $20,000 a year made the grade on a 27-11 vote.

Also approved, 28-9, was Callaway Sen. J. James Waldron's LB1187, which increases from 10 to 15 cents per mile the travel compensation to sheriffs for serving papers, and increases from $2 to $2.50 per day the fee paid sheriffs for boarding prisoners.

Passage 40-1 was accorded Gov. Norbert Tiemann's LB1346, creating a Nebraska Law Enforcement Training Center at a location yet to be determined. Sen. Clifton Batchelder of Omaha cast the dissenting vote.

LB1346, delivered for the governor by Sen. Harold D. Simpson of Lincoln, creates a five-member "Nebraska police standards advisory council" and provides that the training center shall be headed by a director.

Effective in 1972, law enforcement personnel would be required to have completed a training center course as a requisite to appointment or promotion.

Pooling Plan

Passed 29-8 was the government committee's LB1320, creating a transportation services bureau within the Department of Administrative Services to permit pooling and coordination of transportation by state personnel.

Other bills passed on final reading Tuesday would:

—Levy an occupation tax on pinball machines and other mechanical amusedevices in lieu of sales tax on receipts from such devices.

—Extend to Class II and VI school districts the money borrowing powers held by Class III and IV districts.

—Add an optometrist and a podiatrist to the State Board of Health, thus increasing membership from 10 to 12.

Some Solons Try To Save Their Bills From Execution

Aware that efforts are building to call a halt to the 130-day-old session of the Legislature, a number of senators attempted Tuesday to gain early floor consideration of their bills.

Lurking in the background is a possible motion to kill all bills which have not yet received initial floor debate. Dozens of proposals could be buried in such a move.

In a chaotic adjournment scene, the Legislature quit for the day with several senators haplessly requesting permission to move their bills to the head of the list now awaiting first round consideration.

A number of bills, including proposals to establish a statewide system of community colleges, enact a homestead tax exemption, tie sales and income tax rates together, create a state vocational technical school in Omaha, provide aid for schools of nursing and coordinate higher education activities, have been set for debate this week.

Sen. William Skarda of Omaha announced that he will attempt to end the session with a motion to adjourn sine die Aug. 2.

Previous efforts to set a date for final adjournment have been rebuffed.

But senators consider the possibility of a successful motion to kill the stack of bills which have not yet received initial floor debate a more likely alternative.

A few lawmakers, including Sen. Harold Simpson of Lincoln, assured their colleagues that they are prepared to take action on each bill individually before supporting a motion to end the session.

Individual consideration of all remaining bills would probably carry the session through the summer, with adjournment no earlier than Sept. 1.

Ensnared by a battle over highway revenue bills at the second floor plateau Tuesday, senators did not even reach general file for first round consideration of any measures.

Hall Of Justice Proposal Buried

The Legislature Tuesday buried a proposal authorizing construction of a new Hall of Justice to house state judicial offices.

The bill, LB1313, sponsored by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, failed on final reading on a 14-26 vote.

If approved, it would have authorized the state to enter into an agreement with the City of Lincoln under which the city would use its bonding powers to finance and construct the structure. The state would then lease the building.

A new state office building is being constructed under a similar arrangement with the city.

The Hall of Justice would have housed the State Supreme Court, the Workmen's Compensation Court, the Court of Industrial Relations, the Law Library and a branch office of the Department of Justice.

Carpenter wanted the new building in order to clear more office space in the Statehouse for the use of the Legislature.

Police And Firemen Battle Malone Area Disturbances

A series of disturbances occurred in the Malone area following a rock-throwing incident at the intersection of 22nd and Vine Sts. late Tuesday.

Trouble arose when a crowd, estimated at 30, gathered at the intersection and began throwing rocks at passing cars, police said.

Two police cruisers were sent to the scene.

After the crowd was dispersed, windows were reported broken at Taco Joe's, 27th and W Sts., Aamco Transmission, 2416 N St., and Desmond Lumber Company, 1000 W. 22 St.

Windows were also broken at Payless Shoe Store, 1126 N. 27 St.

Windows at Taco Joe's and Aamco were reported by police to have been broken by bottles of an inflamable liquid. Minor damage was inflicted to the interior of Taco Joe's, according to fire officials.

Firemen also were called to put out a fire in some trash near an apartment construction site at 24th and Vine.

Police were seeking a car with three Negro youths inside in connection with the incident at Taco Joe's.

Legislative Bills Introduced

Bill introduced in the Legislature Tuesday:

LB1431 (Mahoney, Bloom, Skarda) — Repealing LB1083 passed earlier, and submitting to voters at the May primary election in 1970, instead of the November general election in 1970, a constitutional amendment authorizing the Legislature to make grants for students in nonpublic schools.

PATRICIA . . . feared kidnaped.

Child, 2, Said Kidnaped

Buffalo, N.Y. (AP) — A 2-year-old baby was believed kidnapped Tuesday by a woman police said was driving a yellow Volkswagen.

Police said the missing child was Patricia Ann Martin, who was taken from a baby carriage.

Patricia's sister, Shellie, 8, was wheeling the carriage when a heavy woman in an orange-flowered dress gave Shellie $1 and asked her to go into a store for a bottle of milk, police said.

When the girl returned the woman and the baby were missing. The carriage was still on the sidewalk, police said.

Patricia, who has brown eyes and black hair, was taken near the music hall where the Buffalo Harmonic performs. The car driven by the woman bore a "Save the Philharmonic sticker.

Chief Detective Ralph Degenhart said the child's parents were not wealthy and he thought the child might have been taken by a person who wanted children but had none of her own. The child was taken about a block from her home.

Federal Manpower Training Center For Omaha Advocated

Washington (AP) — Nebraska Gov. Norbert Tiemann and Omaha Mayor Eugene Leahy appealed to Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz and Federal Manpower Administrator Malcolm Lovell Jr. Tuesday for a federal manpower training center in the Omaha area.

Following the meeting Tiemann and Leahy said they attempted to convince Shultz and Lovell that such a center was needed in the Omaha area for the unemployed and underemployed.

Nebraska Sens. Roman Hruska and Carl Curtis, along with Second District Congressman Glenn Cunningham, expressed support for the proposal.

The governor and mayor said they expect to submit formal plans for such a center in the near future.

There was no immediate reaction from Shultz or Lovell on the request.

Motorist Killed As Auto Stalls On Rail Tracks

Overton (AP) — A car-train accident just west of Overton resulted in the death of a motorist Monday afternoon.

The victim was identified as Melvin Freeze, about 45, who lived near Sumner.

Reports from the scene said the northbound automobile stalled on the tracks and was struck by the freight train.

L. G. Anderson of Grand Island was conductor of the Union Pacific train and Joe Henderson of North Platte was the engineer.

Rail Crossing Crash Claims Driver's Life

Funeral services for Jennifer D. Caplan, 21, of 2201 Calvert, who died late Monday night of injuries suffered in a car-train accident west of Lincoln, have been scheduled for 10:30 a.m. Thursday at Hodgman-Splain-Roberts Mortuary.

Miss Caplan died of injuries received when her car was in collision with a Union Pacific engine at a crossing on the Municipal Airport road. She was alone in the vehicle.

Investigating officers said the auto was dragged more than 100 feet north along the tracks after the impact.

Poliice reported that a number of witnesses said that the crossing signals were in operation and that the engine was sounding and flashing a warning as it approached the crossing.

Suddenly Accelerated

The engineer, Glenn H. Wood, 57, of Beatrice, said the Caplan vehicle slowed for the first track and then suddenly accelerated in front of the approaching engine on the second track.

Miss Caplan, a file clerk for Union Fire Insurance, was the daughter of Mrs. Charlene Caplan, 2201 Calvert.

The death was the 193rd in the state so far this year, compared with 238 on this date a year ago.

75% Wheat Harvested; Corn Making Progress

Wheat harvest in Nebraska made rapid progress early last week, but locally heavy rains have caused more delays for some areas.

This word came Tuesday from the State-Federal Bureau of Agricultural Statistics in its weekly crop-weather report.

About 75% of the wheat has been harvested, compared to a normal of 80%, the bureau said. Most of the wheat has been combined in the south central and southwest, but cutting is just starting in some Panhandle counties.

Other comments:

Most row crops are in good to excellent condition. Corn is responding favorably to the warm, humid conditions and about 30% is now silking. However, this is behind the normal of 40% silked because of cool temperatures during June. Insect populations are building up in some corn fields, but damage has been quite limited.

Sorghums are growing rapidly with very limited insect problems at this time. Soybeans are developing well, but weeds are presenting a problem in some fields. Sugar beets and potatoes are making good growth where irrigated. Dry bean progress is behind normal.

Hot weather and rapidly growing plants are placing increased demands for irrigation. Farmers are also busy with spring small grain harvest, putting up hay, working summer tilled ground and spraying weeds.

Precipitation received throughout the state during the past week included:

East
Grand Island	1.41	Norfolk	2.15
Lincoln	.71	Omaha	2.65
Central
Burwell	1.18	Valentine	1.45
North Platte	1.48
West
Chadron	3.11	Scottsbluff	.64
Imperial	.99	Sidney	.40

Moisture via sections since the beginning of the growing season, April 1, as compared to longtime averages follows:

Northwest — 8.74 inches (1969); 8.94 inches (normal).
North Central — 7.89; 10.33.
Northeast — 11.21; 12.04.
Central — 10.27; 11.37.
East Central — 12.43; 12.61.
Southwest — 9.99; 9.55.
South Central — 12.72; 11.17.
Southeast — 18.72; 13.31.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The sad fix in which the Organization of American States finds itself while attempting to settle the conflict between El Salvador and Honduras is a prime example of the slow pace at which the world works its way toward peace. The OAS has had to admit it cannot do the one thing El Salvador insists upon before agreeing to withdraw its troops from occupied Honduras lands.

El Salvador insists that OAS guarantee the safety of those Salvadorian citizens living in Honduras. Much the same thing is true in the Middle East where the Jews have given up on guarantees supported by the United Nations.

The trouble is that neither the OAS nor the U.N. can really guarantee anything. The OAS has never been implemented as a peace-keeping organization but is intended as one. The U.N. is even organized as such but still cannot get the job done.

★

The reason for the failure of these organizations is obvious, of course. They can be no stronger than the composite of their membership. They can be no stronger than their proverbial weakest link.

And the membership of these organizations is reluctant to give to the parent body any real authority or muscle, for fear that it may at some time be used against its own best interest.

Now, before we condemn communism for this, we had better examine our own position. The truth is that both Russia and the U.S. and their allies have balked at surrendering any of their sovereignty.

They refuse to give to any world or area organization of a neutral makeup any real power or authority. Thus, the Israelis know that a U.N. guarantee is only as good as the Arabs want to make it, not as good as the U.N. might intend it.

★

El Salvador, regardless of who is right or wrong in that Central American struggle, knows that the OAS cannot guarantee anything because it has no real power or authority. The minute it tried to exercise any authority, it would run afoul of the interests of some of its members.

We fully appreciate the spirit of nationalism that prevails in all countries and we recognize the validity of every nation's sovereignty but we wonder if this can continue undiminished if we are ever to achieve the peace all men want.

For example, consider what the conflict and disorder would be in our own community if we did not all discipline ourselves to a certain common set of rules. If we had no law simply because we could not agree among ourselves as to what that law should be, the result would be chaos.

This is about what we have on the international scene. What we really have is anarchy among nations and it is hard to see how real and lasting peace can ever come of this.

★

Perhaps it is only to dream to think that nations ever will be able to discipline themselves to the rule of international law, but it is somewhat of a nightmare to have it as we do. This question is likely to become more and more pertinent as the world becomes more complex and its problems more acute.

The pressures of unsatisfied needs and the technological advancements that are a part of today's world are creating an environment in which hostility is almost second nature. In a simpler day of 50 or 100 years ago, this was not so true but man's world never stops changing.

The philosophy which dictated 50 years ago that we remain aloof from any discipline save that which we imposed upon ourselves has already been outdated. With treaties and agreements, we have abridged this philosophy already but not in the field of military confrontations between nations.

These we still are inclined to settle by lining up against each other and shooting it out. The only trouble is, the weapons now are of the awesome nuclear variety and there is no survival from them.

Taxpayers Wrathy At Oil Companies

WASHINGTON — The mail pouring in on Congress demanding tax reform is unprecedented. And its central target is the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance, which costs the federal government approximately $2 billion a year in lost tax revenues. The average taxpayer is so riled that he will not be satisfied with reform legislation unless the oil depletion allowance is repealed altogether or reduced to 15%.

Meanwhile the oil companies plan to retaliate. An industry public relations man recently admitted: "We can't let this go on without an answer of some kind. We've got to do something to scare the housewives."

Despite this, the change in congressional attitude is almost revolutionary. Many congressmen realize they can no longer defend the $2 billion tax loophole to oil companies.

It was different 15 years ago when Rep. Charles Vanik, then a congressional freshman, made his maiden speech on the House floor against the oil depletion allowance.

Vanik, now a member of the Ways and Means Committee, is preapring another speech for delivery soon in which he reviews the background of the oil depletion allowance from its beginning in the 1918 Revenue Act, when it was called the "Discovery Depletion Allowance."

He will state, in part, that the average steel worker with a family of four paid more taxes than the Atlantic Oil Company in the years 1962 through 1968. Actually, Atlantic paid no federal income tax at all in all of those years, except for 1968. After merging with Richfield, it paid a tax of only 1.2 per cent on a net income of $240,272,000.

In partial deference to Howard Hughes, chief defender of Nevada, who objects to earth-shaking nuclear explosions, the Atomic Energy Commisssion has moved to the Aleutian Islands to set off some whopping onemegaton and two-megaton underground blasts to test the anti-ballistic missile system.

What the AEC is trying to learn is how big a blast it will take to knock down incoming nuclear warheads. Chinese warheads, which are less sophisticated than the Soviet variety, apparently can be destroyed in space by a nuclear explosion in their path.

However, the Soviet warheads are made of such tough metal that they would continue to drive right through any explosion that the AEC has been able to simulate in Nevada. Now it wants to test larger explosions on remote Amchitka Island.

They Have To Be Kidding

The Baseball Writers Association of America, reports the Associated Press, settled some age-old arguments Monday with the naming of major league baseball's greatest all-time players. The AP has to be kidding — the association couldn't settle a baseball argument if it had to.

Furthermore, nobody could settle a baseball argument. For that matter, you can settle hardly any sports arguments and that's part of the beauty of the whole thing.

Why has St. Louis slipped this year to a poor third? Has Chicago developed that much better or have the Cardinals just lost their punch? And it is hard to argue with Lou Gehrig as the choice for first base on the all-time big league team but what about Stan Musial, who had to be satisfied with the all-time team of still living players?

If baseball isn't your forte, what about Joe Namath? Is he as great as they say he is or second to some of the big name quarterbacks of the past? And how about your pick among such golfers as Palmer, Nicklaus or Player?

When anybody settles an argument in sports, that will be the day. The good old fans will go right on arguing about who is best and a host of other things in baseball, football, golf, tennis, swimming, boxing and many other sports.

The AP writer who said the association had settled the argument of who represents the all-time greats in baseball should have his typewriter ribbon taken from him. He should be stripped of his pencils and his copy paper confiscated. The only thing the association has done is give the sports fan something else to argue about. Not only is the organization sure to be wrong, but who is it to make such a decision, anyway?

Vehicle Tax Change Questioned

The uniform vehicle tax bill, LB1222, which is scheduled for initial consideration on the floor of the Legislature Thursday, needs to be amended substantially from its present form if it is to be any better a method of taxing vehicles than the present ad valorem system.

The bill, which would provide for the uniform statewide taxation of motor vehicles according to weight and age, should cut administrative costs, reduce assessment errors and give the taxpayer an idea of what his tax bill will be each year, says Sen. Rick Budd of Nebraska City, chief sponsor of the legislation. Supporters also point out that the new method of taxation would force the residents of lower levy districts to pay an equal tax on like cars as those residents of higher levy districts.

It is anticipated that Budd will introduce amendments which would offset revenue losses written into the bill's present provisions by upping the proposed tax rates and reducing inequities that would exist if unamended by proposing a new schedule for luxury cars.

The bill would still, if amended, erode the ad valorem tax base and cause county treasurers headaches in issuing license plates.

If not amended, the bill will cost higher taxing districts, such as Lancaster County, a considerable amount of revenue — which may not be made up through the pro-ration of truck taxes throughout the state as also provided for in the bill. An inequity will also exist whereby the owner of an older, smaller car will be paying more taxes than at the present whereas the owner of a new, larger car will be getting a considerable reduction. The bad features of LB1222 as now written clearly outweigh any good it could accomplish.

Moon Program Example Of Concentrated Effort; 'Project Hearthstone' Similarly Could Succeed

WASHINGTON — The unearthly events of the weekend, weird though they may have seemed in the sometimes spectral camera images from the moon, must have made believers of the most skeptical and cynical critics of the space program. We have seen mankind enlarged.

But have men been enlightened? Not if they accept unquestioningly such perfervid conclusions as that drawn in advance by Vice President Agnew — that we must quickly press on to Mars. And not if they approve with equal facility the opposite proposition that the moon is far enough.

In fact, deciding a sensible next step in space, or if there is one, is in many ways the least of it for contemporary man; as with whatever life forms and civilizations may spring from this extension of man's environment, where we go from here is a question for the ages.

But so great an event must be worth more to living men than a stunning weekend of vicarious adventure and wonderment, more than the advances in sciences and techniques that have been achieved, more even than a revival of the human spirit in what President Kennedy so often called "difficult times."

☆ ☆ ☆

What, in worldly activity, really distinguished the moon enterprise? It was not, surely, the expense; the nation spent more than twice as much on veterans' benefits in the years of the moon program, and spends more every year on the Vietnam war than the total cost of putting Armstrong and Aldrin on the Sea of Tranquility.

Nor was the moon program, remarkable as it was, primarily a product of scientific and technological genius. That it had to extraordinary degree; but the world is now bristling with marvels — everything from splitting the atom to transplanting human organs. It is not merely on the surface of the moon that men are exposing the secrets once reserved to deities, nor will it stop there.

It cannot be said, either, that the vital ingredient of the moon program was the will of the American people. Neither congressional nor public support was ever wholehearted for a goal that really was decided upon politically and intellectually, without much regard to popular sentiment or popular priorities.

What did set the moon program apart from all other national efforts of the post-war era, what finally assured its success, was concentration of effort and control. Like the Manhattan Project of World War II — the nearest thing to a precedent — the moon program overcame enormous difficulties because, once it was determined to be inherently feasible, those given responsibility for it were also given the necessary authority.

No one ever made the remotest pretense that men could get to the moon via free enterprise, states' rights, rugged individualism, or matching grants. Great profits were surely made, great businesses were founded and perhaps ruined in the effort, and all sorts of individuals and private interests made enormous contributions of skill, courage and knowledge. But this was government-managed enterprise, pointed toward an agreed goal, operating on planned time and cost schedules, with ample administrative authority derived from federal power and wealth.

As for politics, while NASA administrators had to wring annual appropriations from Congress and guard their flanks in the letting of contracts, in the crunch they always had the advantages of a publicized and desirable goal, a competition with the Soviets, and the sense of challenge and commitment these factors lent to much of the American public.

So one conclusion that enlightened men might draw is that if the same concentration of effort and control could be applied to some useful earthy project, a similar success might be obtained. Urban rapid transit, air and water pollution, just and sensible population planning—one of these might well yield to a powerful spear of effort wielded as efficiently as was the space program, and at less or a little higher cost.

What, for instance, about something that might be romantically called "Project Hearthstone?" Take former President Johnson's congressionally endorsed goal of 26 million new housing units to be built in 10 years; challenge the Soviets to match or better it; commit the national pride; empower a national agency to get the job done by 1980 by mobilizing and directing builders and craftsmen, paying them well, and putting them under planned schedule and strict quality and priority controls.

It wouldn't work, of course. Money-lenders, union regulations, local building codes, lack of funds, politicians, the cliches of free enterprise—all these and other difficulties make a "Project Hearthstone" as remote and unlikely as putting men on the moon.

New Spirit In The Senate

WASHINGTON — Whether in the final head count the anti-ballistic missile wins or loses by a few votes is unimportant alongside the great change the struggle has worked on the Senate. It is restoring the independence and authority of that body. Debate is again a vital function and not just a tired routine for the benefit of the record.

Pressures are being applied by the White House and the Pentagon, and in a few instances they may be effective. But a spirit of independence in a remarkable crop of men elected last year gives the Senate a new look. The label is not liberal or conservative. It is independent.

True, among both Democratic and Republican newcomers, it is particularly the latter who make up an element of large promise for the future such as the staid old lady of Capitol Hill has not seen for many a year. Brooke of Massachusetts, Cook of Kentucky, Goodell of New York, Mathias of Maryland, Saxbe of Ohio, Schweiker of Pennsylvania — these are senators who believe in the importance of the role of the senator in arriving at great national decisions. Whether they ever unite again on a common cause, as they are united in opposition to the ABM, is irrelevant. What counts is the kind of conviction — and independence — they are showing. It is the opposite of rubber stamp, the damning label that all too often fit past performers.

At odds with a Republican administration that takes a no-compromise stand invoking national security, the Republican newcomers find strength in their own numbers. They are as far from their own leader, Sen. Everett McKinely Dirksen, as from the entrenched southerners who are the mainstay in Congress of the military-industrial complex. This is a new chapter in the old story of the party that is half-horse and half-alligator.

For the Nixon administration, Dirksen has been a disaster in the comic tradition. This is not to belittle his power, which is considerable. But he has used that power so crudely and obviously in instance after instance as to wring the last ounce of embarrassment and humiliation from those whom he crossed up. The corn conceals an iron determination to get his own way in large things and small. At the same time, as he showed in his close relationship with Lyndon Johnson, he is a shrewd bargainer who can trade off a position when the price is right, as in a judgeship or another practical matter.

On the Democratic side three newcomers—Cranston of California, Eagleton of Missouri and Hughes of Iowa — are also independents. They will not be bound by party lines. Hughes, for two terms governor of his state, is one of the most gifted men to sit in the Senate in a long time.

So great is the power of the executive today that the legislature has come to seem hardly more than an outmoded debating society with the superfluous function of ratifying the decisions of the President. The complexities of modern weapons systems and the huge budgets of the Department of Defense frustrate and bewilded the elected representatives of the people. They are repeatedly told, as in the ABM debate, that they must trust the experts who understand the intricacies of modern weaponry.

☆ ☆ ☆

In this atmosphere it is not surprising that voices of doom sound the knell for government of the people, by the people, for the people. In a recent speech Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, quoted Gibbon's "Decline and Fall" to suggest a parallel between the way the Roman republic was undermined with power concentrated in the Caesars and the erosion of the authority of the Congress. Gibbon's majestic words rolled out in the half-empty Senate chamber with a sibylline sound:

"It was on the dignity of the Senate that Augustus and his successors founded their new empire . . . In the administration of their own powers, they frequently consulted the great national council and seemed to refer to its decisions the most important concerns of peace and war . . . The masters of the Roman world surrounded their throne with darkness, concealed their irresistible strength and humbly professed themselves the accountable ministers of the senate whose supreme decrees they dictated and obeyed . . . Augustus was sensible that mankind is governed by names; nor was he deceived in his expectation that the Senate and the people would submit to slavery, provided they were respectfully assured that they still enjoyed their ancient freedom."

The parallels are not hard to draw — the inroads of inflation, urban rot, the slaves revolt as the legions fight on the marches of civilization to preserve the empire, the corruption of morals and manners, the rise of crime and violence. But if the Senate is in any way a touchstone, the evidence is to the contrary. In the view of this observer, the new men, together with the veterans, are a body as distinguished and as resolute as the Senate has ever seen.

Cooper of Kentucky, Case of New Jersey, Gore of Tennessee, Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, Fulbright of Arkansas, Williams of Delaware, Tydings of Maryland, Aiken of Vermont, Muskie of Maine, Symington of Missouri, Scott of Pennsylvania — these are some of the names on a long roster. In the ancient Roman meaning of the word, they are tribunes of the people.

Beatrice Home

Beatrice, Neb.

I wonder if it would do any good if the ward aides and parents of the children at the Beatrice State Home would go before the Legislature, governor and director of institutions and on their knees beg them to do something about the conditions there.

One of our senators said something about not appropriating money for new projects before we get the old ones done. How true! Big things are always started but never finished!

Some of these people should come down to the home and spend a few days on the wards. With few fans and no air conditioning and only one or two ward aides trying to care for 40 or 50 patients, seeing that they are fed, bathed and clothed, perhaps they would understand.

It is true that the governor's study committee points out the needs, but so far nothing has been done, so why go to all the trouble? Could this be just for a little publicity?

The Wymore writer was right about many things. It is only the severely retarded at the home who are in want.

I believe over $600,000 has been appropriated for a new recreation building, but how will this help the overcrowding or the severely retarded? The only answer is to decrease the number of patients but retain enough ward aides to care for the severely retarded.

Those who cannot speak for themselves are the forgotten ones. The years will roll along and nothing will ever be done, just more talk.

Our thanks for publishing the fine story on our recent awards. We have had letters from several persons who saw the item. George Round from the University mentioned that he was happy to see the picture and story of his old friend, Emil Fafeita. Mr. Fafeita was once a very prominent businessman here, and I'm sure other friends of his were also happy to see the publicity he received.

We would like to add our thanks for the wonderful publicity given to our block parade project on the Fourth of July. Being a patriotic organization, one of whose objects is the promotion of patriotism, it was very gratifying to have this idea adopted and supported as it was, although disappointing to have the name of the organization omitted in the publicity.

We are proud that this idea was promoted by our tent and was subsequently submitted in a recommendation to our national body where it was approved and published in our general orders for use throughout the United States. We are also glad to know that it was brought to the attention of Congress and a recommendation for approval introduced July 1.

Parker Seeks Release Pending Further Action

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

A motion for the release of Darrel F. Parker on bail pending further action by Nebraska authorities regarding his reversed conviction is being made to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis.

Richard M. Bruckner of Omaha, a Parker attorney, said Tuesday the formal motion is expected to reach the appellate court sometime Wednesday.

Parker, a former Lincoln city forester, was found guilty by a Lancaster District Court jury in the 1955 strangulation death of his wife, but the state conviction was reversed last Friday by the Federal appellate court.

The court ruled the confession obtained from Parker was coerced and involuntary and granted the Nebraska authorities 90 days in which to retry Parker.

Bruckner said the motion, made under U.S. Supreme Court and appellate court rules, seeks an order releasing Parker "upon his (Parker's) own recognizance pending further action by the State of Nebraska" in this appeal case.

In asking that Parker be released on his own recognizance, or personal bond, Bruckner noted in the motion that Parker has been a "model prisoner" during nearly 13 years of confinement at the Nebraska Penal Complex.

The motion also cites that Parker had no previous arrests, convictions or trouble with the law of any kind prior to his wife's death.

Nebraska authorities have made no official announcement of future action they may take in the Parker case.

Lancaster County Attorney Paul Douglas has said alternatives of seeking a rehearing in Federal Eighth Circuit Court or appealing directly to the U.S. Supreme Court are under consideration by his office and the State Attorney General's office.

Lincoln General Auctions 2 Floors Of Furnishings

Some 500 persons attended the first day of the Lincoln General Hospital auction at which furnishings from the basement and first floors of the old building were sold.

A total of 350 persons, from as far away as Iowa and North Platte, registered as prospective bidders, according to auctioner Bernard Hart.

A number of nursing and convalescent homes, as well as hospitals, were represented in the biddng crowd, Hart said.

Lincoln General officials said that the amount of money raised at the first of two auctions in the old hospital building, scheduled to be razed about Aug. 1, will not be reported until after the auction next Monday. Furnishings of the second, third and fourth floors will be sold at the second session beginnng at 10 a.m.

It had been estimated that about $25,000 could be raised from selling the air-conditioners, beds, dining tables, chairs and other equipment from the building. The proceeds of the auction are to be used to help pay the $75,000 demolition cost.

According to Hart, the better equipment, including the bulk of the air-conditioners will be sold next week.

Five Workers Killed

Utsunomiya, Japan (UPI) — Five workers were killed when a stone quarry caved in near this city about 50 miles north of Tokyo.

Power Failure Lasts One Minute In Lincoln Areas

Power in downtown and northwestern Lincoln was off for about one minute Tuesday morning, according to an official in the Lincoln Electric System's engineering department.

Nebraska Public Power System employes installing circuit breaker and control equipment at the 2nd and M Sts. substation apparently accidently energized the tripping circuit to the circuit breakers, the spokesman said.

He emphasized that the exact cause of the brief outage had not yet been determined.

Power was restored in about one minute, he said.

The area affected included the downtown area, east past the University of Nebraska and south to the State Penitentiary, the official said.

BLIND FAWN'S PAL

The area game manager at International Falls, Minn., holds a blind fawn he found in the woods. The manager, John Schneeweis, cared for the animal about two weeks, then had it shipped to a game farm to determine the cause of blindness. He says the fawn should survive in the farm's large pens, but couldn't have escaped predators in the wilds.

Motor Vehicle Department Cleans Up Receipt Backlog

The State Motor Vehicle Department Tuesday desposited $26,853 in inspection sticker receipts into the state treasury.

This brought to $62,946 the amount of deposits made since a three-month backlog of undeposited checks were discovered last week in the department's motor vehicle division.

"This cleans up all undeposited funds on hand," John Ceverny, assistant director said.

He said Tuesday's deposit partially included backlogged receipts, but approximately $16,000 was revenue received during July.

Ceverny said total deposits under the state's motor vehicle inspection program now amount to $96,084, indicating that 387,363 stickers have been issued by inspection stations.

Motor vehicle owners pay a $2 inspecton fee, and the station operator monthly remits 25 cents to the state for each sticker issued.

State Motor Vehicle Director Larry Johns, who earlier shouldered the blame for the goof-up in undeposited checks, said daily deposits of all inspection sticker receipts will be made in the future.

Commissioners Criticize Road Classification

A request for approval of a State Highway Department study classifying the function of existing roads in Lancaster County drew considerable criticism from the county commissioners Tuesday.

Commissioners deferred any action on the request for at least two weeks.

The study, prepared by the State Highway Department with some changes made in the classifications of function by County Engineer Walter Hoppe, is to be submitted to the U.S. Bureau of Roads in the Department of Transportation, the commissioners were told.

For National Plan

The material about existing conditions will be used in preparation of long-range plans for the nation's roads, it was explained.

D. J. Erington, assistant District I engineer, and Edwin Johnson, highway planner, appeared before the commissioners for the second time Tuesday with the request for approval of the study.

Commissioner William Grossman termed the study a "waste of time."

Maintenance Blasted

Commissioner Ralph Harlan took the occasion to blast the State Highway Department for its maintenance procedures on roads along his property in the southern half of the county.

Erington emphasized that the study was not a report of the county's road needs nor a plan for future roads. "It is a survey of the function of certain routes as of December, 1968," he said.

Hoppe had recommended approval of the study.

In other business Tuesday the commissioners approved the application for a subdivision permit by Robert Rohrbaugh of Denton.

The county treasurer was directed to re-invest some $200,000 in county funds in U.S. Treasury Bills.

Petition For Alvarez Seeks Withdrawal Of Original Plea

Thomas Alvarez, scheduled to die in the electric chair Oct. 6 for the 1966 slaying of Mrs. Mary O'Shea of Lincoln, filed a petition Tuesday asking that his original plea of guilty be withdrawn.

The motion filed with the Lancaster District Court, states that Alvarez, now 22, entered a guilty plea "by mistake, inadvisably through fear, misrepresentation, and genuine misapprehension as to his legal position and his constitutional rights."

Also in the petition, attorney Richard Goos says that the guilty plea was involuntary because Alvarez was led to believe that the death sentence would be requested if he asked for a jury trial but not if he waived jury trial.

The former Denverite was also unaware he had a constitutional right to a trial by a "jury representative of a cross section of the community, and upon which members of the community who had general objections to capital punishment might be allowed to sit and hear his case," the petition said.

Last month, Alvarez was denied a new hearing and reduction in sentence by District Judge Bartlett Boyles, the same judge who originally handed down the death sentence.

Originally scheduled to die in March, 1967, Alvarez has received four stays of execution since then.

C&NW Railroad Files Suit Against Metal Company

A $76,500, suit was filed Tuesday in U.S. Federal Court by the Chicago and Northwestern Railway, Co., Inc., in connection with the Jan. 6, 1969 death of a railway worker, John Bales.

The plaintiff alleges negligence on the part of the defendant, Northwestern Metal Co., saying a warehouse was less than the minimum distance from the centerline of a spotting track.

A railway yardmaster, Bales, was crushed by a boxcar which derailed while being spotted at a warehouse.

Resolutions Seek Interim Studies Of Nurses' Training, Rural Health

By The Associated Press

The Legislature was asked Tuesday to undertake interim studies of rural health problems in Nebraska, and steps which might be taken to increase the number of trained nurses in the state.

Both resolutions were referred to the Legislative Council's executive board for recommendation.

Legislative Resolution 73 introduced by Sen. E. Thome Johnson of Fremont called upon the department of public institutions to defer levying a proposed enrollment fee for affiliate students enrolled for psychiatric training at the Hastings State Hospital.

The Institutions Department has proposed an enrollment fee of $75 per affiliate student enrolled for psychiatric training at the hospital effective July 1, and increasing to $150 by July 1, 1972.

Sen. Johnson's resolution pointed out that two of Nebraska's largest private hospital schools of nursing, because of financial burdens, are phasing out their training operations.

Other hospital schools of nursing may soon be forced to follow suit, the resolution said.

The resolution asked the Legislature's executive board to make an interim study of current nursing education programs, and that steps be suggested which will increase the number of properly trained and educated nurses and patient care personnel in Nebraska.

The other resolution, No. 74, growing out of concern for health services in rural areas, said that 13 Nebraska counties are without a physician in residence.

Resolution 74 noted that rural people have only about one half the access per person to doctors, nurses, dentists, hospital beds and other health resources when compared to urban people.

Sponsored by Sens. Henry F. Pedersen Jr. of Omaha, J. James Waldron of Callaway, Robert L. Clark of Sidney, Rudolf C. Kokes of Ord and Richard D. Marvel of Hastings, the resolution calls for an interim study of rural health problems in Nebraska, focusing on manpower and facilities and relating modern means of transportation and communication to the growing disparity in health care between rural and urban areas.

Pay Hike Rejected; Peterson Eyes New Post

Nebraska State Railway Commissioner Fred N. Peterson, reacting to the Legislature's refusal to approve a pay raise for commissioners, reported Tuesday he is "seriously considering running for state auditor."

He commented shortly after lawmakers refused to pass a bill which would have raised commissioner pay from $12,000 to $14,000 per year.

The bill involved, LB953, introduced by Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, needed 25 votes to pass, but drew only 22 "yes" votes, and 17 in opposition.

Peterson said he did not regard the proposed pay increase as "extreme," and said that had the pay boost been approved, he "would have sat tight."

Peterson, 53-year-old brother of former Gov. Val Peterson, will round out next year a six-year term on the Railway Commission from the 23-county northeast Nebraska Third District. He is a resident of Columbus and a Republican.

Peterson commented from a Lincoln hospital where he is recovering from recent open heart surgery.

Were he to seek the auditor's post, he would bid to succeed State Auditor Ray Johnson, who has announced he will not be a candidate for renomination. Johnson also is a Republican.

The current Legislature is in the process of placing the state auditor's salary at $16,000 a year.

STATE LOSES SUIT OVER SCHOOL AID

The Federal District Court in Omaha ruled Tuesday that the state of Nebraska cannot withhold state aid to education funds from school districts receiving federal aid as federally-impacted districts.

The decision came as the result of a suit against the state by the Bellevue School District and a resident of the district, Richard L. Triplett.

An initial three-judge Federal Court panel relegated the case to Chief Federal District Judge Richard E. Robinson who made the final ruling.

Judge Robinson noted in his opinion that there are 46 school districts in the state entitled to federal aid in impacted areas, and that a section of the 1967 state law setting up state aid to schools was unconstitutional and violated the 14th Amendment of the U.S. Constitution.

The 1967 measure, which required school districts receiving federal funds to account for the payments in a reduction of the amount of state aid to which they would otherwise be entitled, has since been repealed.

The former law also provided that a subtraction of state aid should be made against the district of an amount equal to such federal payments which it was eligible to receive, even if the district failed to make application for the federal funds.

A spokesman for the Nebraska Attorney General's office, said about $1 million has been held in escow pending the federal ruling.

Judge Robinson's ruling noted that the defendants had previously stated that because of a restraining order they had "withheld a sufficient amount of funds to be able to make payment of the sums to which each of such school districts would be entitled without deduction on account of their federal payments."

Judge Robinson's ruling also noted that in the fiscal year 1967-68 total payments to Nebraska school districts totaled $3,221,297, with individual payments to districts ranging from $1,394 to $1,536,194.

Included in Judge Robinson's written opinion, was a statement which said that the crediting of federal funds against the amount of state aid constituted the "absorption" of federal and state funds to the equivalence of general aid payments and hence "deprived the funds of their federal purpose and significance as special local assistance payments for federal impact."

City Adds Self-Help Park Funds

Money for self-help park developments was added to the city park department budget during a Lincoln City Council budget meeting Tuesday.

Council members, after discussing at length a proposal for a park in the Malone area, decided to add $25,000 to the budget to handle park requests from neighborhood groups.

It was pointed out that matching federal funds should also be available for such park developments.

Council members also voiced support for more teenage recreation facilities in the Malone area.

Park and Recreation Department Director James Ager said the playground park proposed by the neighborhood residents would not serve teenagers.

No action was taken on Malone park.

Council members discussed revamping activities at the 23rd and O Sts. recreation center to revolve around teenagers.

The council agreed teenagers should have a major voice in deciding what recreational facilities should be available to the area teens.

Council members also added $8,976 for a landscape architect and $15,000 for two additional park policemen before approving the park department budget.

The budget, not including the items added Tuesday, totalled $1,425,964, compared to $1,111,646 for the present fiscal year.

Park Superintendent Don Smith said he needed two more park policemen because eight new parks have been added during the past year.

Request 30 Employes

Council members turned down a supplemental budget request by Smith for 10 fulltime tree trimmers, costing $48,960, and 20 fulltime laborers, costing $97,920.

Smith said the laborers would serve as both maintenance men and park guards to minimize vandalism.

He said if the city increases it's number of parks, extra men must be provided to maintain the parks.

Spray Cost Included

Included in the approved budget was money for methoxychlor, a chemical spray used to help prevent Dutch elm disease. The chemical will replace DDT, which scientists say is harmful to birds, fish and insects.

The council also added $9,943 to the recreational department budget for operating Antelope Pavilion as a recreation center during the summer, and approved the budget without making any cuts.

The Mayor's recommended budget of $313,015, which did not include the Antelope Pavilion funds, is down $100,000 from the present fiscal year.

The 1968-69 413,239 budget included funds for the proposed recreation center at 63rd and Adams Sts.

Also approved were the municipal pools and golf budgets, both financed by self-supporting revenues.

Air Pollution Data Sought On City's Sanitary Landfill

City Council members plan to seek concrete data on whether or not the city's sanitary landfill is polluting the air.

The air pollution data request was made Tuesday evening during a hearing on the sanitary landfill budget after recent claims of pollution were rejected.

Public Works Director Robert Obering refuted claims that the landfill is polluting the air over Lincoln.

He said at most only the northeastern tip of the Havelock area would receive smoke from the landfill because of prevailing northwest-southeast winds.

Air Pollution Control Officer Les Sanger had said during a recent Air Pollution Control Advisory Board meeting that the landfill is a polluter of Lincoln's air.

"I want to find out whether we are or are not polluting the air. If we are, then changes should be made," Councilwoman Mrs. Helen Boosalis said.

Obering pointed out that any change would involve the burying of materials rather than burning them.

He added that land would be used up faster if the city goes to burying rubbish.

In other action council members also approved without change the traffic engineering budget of $297,714, up $300 over the present fiscal year.

In approving the budget, the council okayed the proposed truck route system for Lincoln which would take trucks out of the downtown core.

Council members approved spending $17,000 during the 1969-70 fiscal year for the signing of the three routes.

Money was not included for the upcoming fiscal year for the channelization and signalization of the West O and Sunvalley Blvd. intersection. The project had been included in the truck route system.

Council members also decided against establishing a snow removal account within the public works department because snow costs each year are unpredictable.

Money for snow removal is presently listed under numerous accounts in the budget.

Obering said the city spent a record $245,000 during the past winter for snow removal.

City Sales Tax Discussed

amount for storm sewers that would come out of general funds.

Other Uses

She added that a city sales tax could be used for street needs should the Legislature cut state highway aid to the city.

After the meeting, Mrs. Boosalis said, the date the city should make the tax effective should be dependent upon how much money the city needs to raise for the storm sewer projects.

Obering said he would begin immediately to revise his budget.

Not Sure

Questioned as to what projects would be added, Obering said "I do not know yet."

He said the projects could be ones listed in the capital improvements program for the 1970-71 fiscal year.

"I doubt I could get construction completed on $5 million worth of projects within one year but I would get as many projects as possible under contract," he told council members.

A law permitting cities to levy sales taxes was enacted by the current session of the Legislature.

Omaha's city council approved a one-cent sales tax, but the proposal was vetoed by Mayor Eugene Leahy. Indications are that the Omaha council will adopt one-half cent tax effective in October.

Sewer Projects

Storm sewer projects that will be financed with the bond issue approved by voters in May are:

—Portion of storm sewer, 33rd and Baldwin to 36th and Vine.

—Portion of storm sewer in B St., Salt Creek to 18th St.

—Portion of storm sewer, 25th and Merrill to 27th and Holdrege.

—Storm sewer, 26th and F to 27th and Sumner.

PAULIS LAZDA

U.S. Student, Wife Expelled From Russia

Moscow (UPI) — An American student and his wife tried to smuggle an anti-Soviet manuscript out of the Soviet Union but were caught and expelled earlier this month, a newspaper said Tuesday.

The Americans were identified as Paulis Lazda, 30, a native of Latvia and a postgraduate student at the University of Wisconsin, and his wife Irina.

The U.S. Embassy said it was informed of Lazda's expulsion around July 11, after the couple had left the country. It said they reached Helsinki, Finland, safely.

Show Wagon Brings 'Parkamania'

If you just happen to be strolling through the park someday and run into a rushed and flustered little eight year-old chasing a piece of candy, be cautious he may be suffering from parkamania.

Parkamania? Websters isn't up on this one, but anyone who's seen the City Recreation Department's "Show Wagon" park production certainly is.

Ask any one of the approximately 25 youngsters in the Youth Theater Co., and they'll tell you that "parkamania" can be defined as a summertime madness that gives one an uncontrolable urge to get out of the house and head for the parks!

The Youth Theater Co., a group of volunteers, 12 to 15 years old, stages the Show Wagon Auditions and talent shows on Monday, Tuesday and Sunday evenings at 7:30. The wagon, a $5,000 decorated vehicle, moves from park to park, spending a week in each one. "Parkamania" is this summer's theme.

Judging by their excitement and dedication — they often work 40 hours a week — the youngsters of the Youth Theater and their director, Andy Backer, are a first-class example of a bunch of parkamaniacs. And there are hundreds of Lincoln youngsters who are glad of it.

Over 80 Lincoln talent amateurs, ranging from 6 to 16 years old, have become involved in the summer's Show Wagon, and anywhere from 100 to twice that many usually make up a Show Wagon audience.

Twenty-four trophies will have been distributed by the end of the summer, the largest one saved for the final talent show August 3 at Pinewood Bowl.

The Pinewood Bowl talent show, climaxing the summer Show Wagon activities, will feature 12 acts, all winners of the smaller park contests.

Each Show Wagon Parkomania production ends with a short skit written by Backer, City Recreation drama and music supervisor and more or less man-behind-Show Wagon.

The skit, "The Candy Snatcher." Works like a magnet, bringing all the children in the audience to the foot of the stage, booing the candy snatcher and sometimes by mistake, even the fairy godmother. As an audience participation gimmick, the skit is wonderfully effective, resulting in scores of tykes running madly to catch candy tossed off the stage.

So when you're walking through the park and happen to run into that little parkamaniac, don't doubt him — it's summertime and there's candy in the air. And do be cautious — arkamaniac is contagious.

New...Sleep + Aspirin tablets for a Fine Night's Sleep

WITHOUT HABIT-FORMING SLEEPING PILLS

A New York chemist has perfected a remarkable "Asper-Sleep" formula which unites 3 safe aids to sound refreshing sleep. Never before has there been such a combination to help relieve the problem of sleeplessness without habit forming drugs.

The reason you fall asleep so fast and sleep like a log is that each Asper-Sleep tablet contains (1) an effective antihistamine (2) a gentle sedative to help you relax from simple everyday nervous tensions (3) pain-relieving aspirin . . . to curb the miseries of common headache, colds and minor arthritis, rheumatism, muscular and menstrual pains—to help you sleep when these disturbances are keeping you awake.

No prescription needed — just ask for "Asper-Sleep tablets," get 100% safe sleep without dopey, depressing after-affects. Take as directed. Wake up "bright-eyed and bushy-tailed." Money back if not satisfied. Asper-Sleep at druggists 89¢.

Proposal Changes Election Date

A proposed constitutional change permitting a type of state financial aid to parochial schools would be submitted to voters at the primary election next May, instead of at the general election in November of next year, under terms of a bill introduced in the Legislature Tuesday.

Lawmakers earlier this month passed 41-2 a bill, LB1083, submitting the proposition to voters at the 1970 general election.

The new substitute bill, LB1421, simply changes the election at which the proposal is submitted.

A constitutional amendment approved by voters last November empowered the Legislature, on a four-fifths vote, to call special elections for the submission of constitutional amendments to voters.

Utilizing this amendment, LB1421 makes the special election coincident with the statewide primary next May.

Bringing in the new bill were Sens. Eugene T. Mahoney, Bill Bloom and William R. Skarda Jr., all of Omaha.

Specifically, LB1421 and the earlier LB1083 which it replaces, put to a vote a proposal to authorize the Legislature to make grants for the benefit of students enrolled in nonpublic schools as reimbursement for the part of their tuition allocable to instruction in state-approved courses.

The reimbursement shall not exceed one-third of the per student cost in the public school district in which the student resides "nor shall any plan of reimbursement breach the separation of church and state required by the first amendment to the Constitution of the United States."

Sen. Mahoney who sponsored the original LB1083 as well as the successor bill, was successfull in getting the 33 votes needed for placement of the bill on general file without a public hearing before a committee after first being rebuffed.

The Off-To-Campus Wardrobe

High school graduation is past history — the college entrance exams are over, and now all the potential masculine college freshman has to do is have everything ready to pack when that time comes.

The packing project may not be quite so simple as it appears right now since an off-to-campus wardrobe must be chosen with a certain amount of care.

The fashion director of a man's store shows the following trends in wardrobe selection for that college freshman—

Topcoat — lined, all-weather coat for practicality; most wardrobes include only one.

Stadium coat — one corduroy or wool melton coat, which doubles for sport and casual dress.

Suits — average collegian buying one suit. Styling features shaping, natural shoulders and wide lapels.

Sport coat — students choosing solid, patterned, plaid or striped models, double-breasted with suppressed waist.

Dress slacks — average is two pair, in Dacron polyester blends for comfort and easy care and colors such as muted, country shades in heathered looks which complement the sport coat.

Casual slacks — for classroom and after-hour activity, students usually selecting four pair, including one or two plaid styles and a pair with a slight flair.

Casual jeans — new looks selling in two-color and three - color combinations, flaired and striped or patterned. Two pairs are adequate for Fall sports events.

Woven sport shirts — most suitcases will contain four, shaded in a variety of colors to spark an otherwise one-way wardrobe.

Knit shirts — average wardrobe has four easy-care knits, including mock turtleneck models to wear alone or under sweaters.

Sweaters — three models, cardigans, V-neck pullovers and bulky knits such as the fisherman's stitch, have proved their worth for wear on campus.

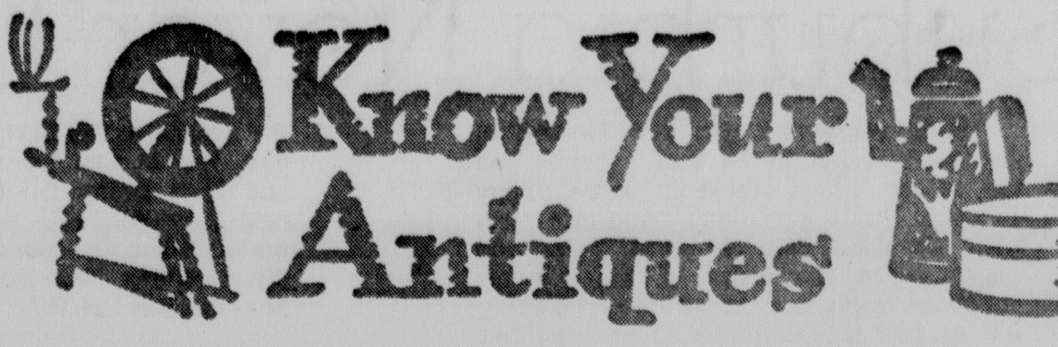
Belts — wider this year, with antiqued buckles. Most common colors are rich brown and black.

Ties — four provide ample variety. The wider the better, in stripes, figures and plaids.

Gloves.— average student buying one pair that goes well with his stadium coat and all-weather coat.

Shoes — most young men finding that three pair — casual, sneakers and a pair for dress — keep them in step. George boots or loafers with hardware trim appear to be the most popular casuals among this season's versatile footwear.

Know Your Antiques



BY RALPH AND TERRY KOVEL

Q. How can I tell the age of my Royal Doulton earthenware?

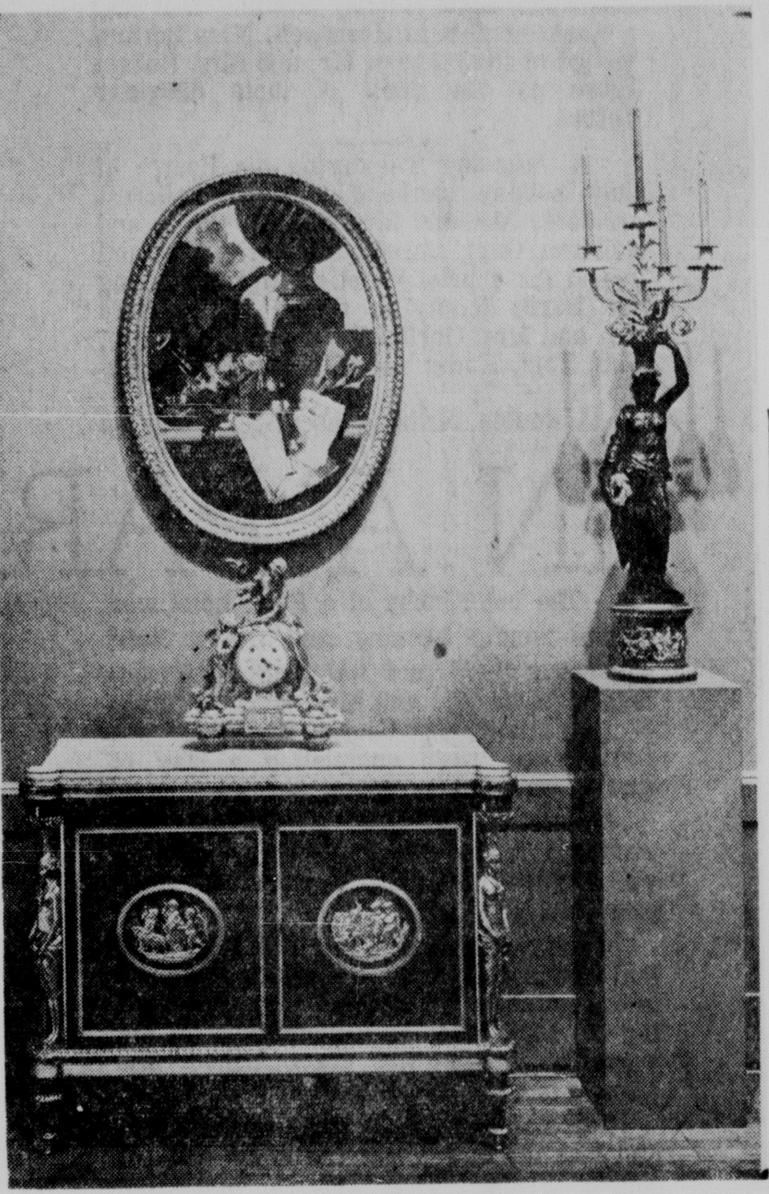
A. The Royal Doulton factory of England used a numbering system for pieces of earthenware marked Burslem. The numbers indicated the year the pattern was first made. It does not indicate the actual year of manufacture. Some of the early patterns are still being made with the old number to show the design origin.

Numbers below A 6882 were made from 1877 to 1892. A 8085 was used in 1895. By 1898 the numbers ranged from A 9618 to 10000. A new number system was started in 1899. The numbers ranged from D 1 to D 1000 through July, 1901. The numbers 3001 to 4000 were used from July, 1908 to August, 1916. From December, 1938 to September, 1964 the numbers D 6001 to D 6604 were used. You can estimate the age of your pattern by comparing the numbers. The years not given above were numbered in proper order.

Other types of Royal Doulton also had a date number system. Porcelain or china was numbered with a C until 1901, an E was used until 1915, and an H used after 1916.

Q. How old are nests of tables?

A. The first nests of tables were made during the late 18th century. Most of the sets had four tables. Each table was of a slightly different height. That way one table could be stored under the other. The tables were used in the drawing room and were handy for serving refreshments. The first pictured nest of tables was in Thomas Sheraton's design book. The tables were originally called "quartettos."



Modern design stresses utility and function or the properties of the material. The 18th century designer wanted beauty. The candelabra design featuring a draped, classical figure holding a branched set of candle arms over her head is one of these designs. The figure was usually made of bronze. The candle arms were of dore or gilt brass with a metal or marble stand. The first of these candlesticks appeared in France during the mid-18th century. Many variations of the idea have been made. The Empire period designers made many of these figure candelabra. There are several of them in the White House collection.

Victorian designers made similar candelabra. A large lady holding candles could be found on the newel post of many circular stairways. Glass candlesticks of similar designs were made. The tireless lady holding the lights went out of fashion by the 20th century.

FASHIONS

One of America's outstanding designers showed his fall and winter collection in New York a few days ago, and here is a story about the Norell collection from Mary Ellen Myrene, Associated Press fashion writer—

NEW YORK — American designer Norman Norell, caught in the earthly affair of fabulous fashion, watched the countdown fall on his autumn and winter collection Wednesday.

It got off the ground in spectacular style, with few flaws.

Considered by many as America's most influential designer, the 69-year-old Norell drew again — and unabashedly — on the jacketed look of Chanel, fitting sleeves high with superb tailoring.

Shunning the flouncy, 30's look that has characterized many of the '69 collections, Norell kept his lines clean, solid and simply adorned, with narrow sash belts, rows of button and big patch pockets.

One of his newest looks was a waist-length jacket, cuffed like a shirt and banded at the bottom. He showed it over skirts and pants, both topped by plain, high-necked jersey shirts.

The Indiana-born designer used color, crepe and mounds of sequins for entry into evening. One of the prettiest combinations was a bright blue floor-length cape over an orange gown studded with bands of gold sequins.

For those really spectacular occasions, he offered gowns of solid sequins topped with rhinestone trim around the neck. With tasteful tailoring, it was gaudy but still good.

His And Her Pie-A Delightful Dessert

Pie is—and always has been—a man's dessert. There's no question about that. Sometimes, though, hostesses hesitate a bit about serving pie to the ladies. We've never been able to trace the origin of this reluctance, but we know that it is true. Somehow there always has been the thought that a lady's dessert should be something less substantial — and in some cases, less tasty.

Well, if you belong to that school of thought it's time you changed. Here is a dessert to please the ladies AND the gentlemen and it IS a pie—Quite a delicious pie, too, we might add. It's put together with sugar and spice and everything nice plus peaches and coconut — (the latter is added when the pie is partially baked). Take this delightful concoction and serve it while it is slightly warm. The ladies never will turn it down. Here is the recipe—

PEACHES-AND-COCONUT PIE

1 unbaked 8-inch pie shell
Filling:
1 No. 2 can (1 pound 5 ounces) peach pie filling
2 tablespoons brown sugar, firmly packed
Dash cinnamon
1 tablespoon butter
Coconut topping:
1 egg
¼ cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
1 can (3½ ounces) flaked coconut

Prepare pie shell; refrigerate until ready to fill. Combine pie filling, brown sugar and cinnamon; pour into unbaked pie shell; dot with butter. Bake at 400 degrees for 25 minutes. Meanwhile, make Coconut Topping: In small bowl, beat egg until frothy. Add remaining ingredients, in order, and mix thoroughly. Spread over the partially baked pie. Reduce oven temperature to 375 degrees and bake 20 minutes longer or until topping is lightly browned. Cool partially on wire rack; serve warm. Makes 6 servings.

MISS ADRIAN DePUTRON

Of special interest to Lincoln this morning is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. John C. DePutron of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Adrian, to Lt. Edward Richard Hilz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Hilz of Howells.

The wedding is planned for late September.

Miss DePutron, the granddaughter of Mrs. D. E. DePutron, and the late Mr. DePutron, is a former student at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

Lt. Hilz, a graduate of the University of Nebraska, served as a field member on Sen. Eugene McCarthy's campaign staff, and for the past year has been associated with the United States Steel Corp. in Pittsburgh, Pa. He plans to return to the United States Steel Corp. after completing a two-year tour of duty with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. He now is stationed at Ft. Belvoir, Va.

Suburbia Never Lacking In Activity

While everyone's eyes were focused on the stars — or to be more precise, on the moon — last weekend, we're happy to report that things didn't come to a complete standstill here on earth. Trips and guests were the order of the day as suburban residents concentrated on making the last half of the summer as activity-filled as the first.

The weekend agenda for Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hinrichs and their daughters, Amy Lynn and Lori Ann, of Bethany Park Heights included attending the Novak family reunion which took place Sunday afternoon in Crete.

Miss Janet Bottum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bottum, returned to her Eastridge home Sunday evening following a weekend visit in Heartwell. Miss Bottum visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hawe as the guest of their daughter Teresa.

A three-day trip during the Fourth of July holiday weekend took Kimballcrest residents Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Burns and children, Gary, Christie and Lorie, to Grand Island for a brief vacation. Accompanying the Burns family to Grand Island were Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Zwiebel and children, Jim, Tom, Kathy and Mike; and John Imig.

A double birthday observance was on the agenda at the Burns' household on Sunday, July 13. The honorees were Mr. Burns and Miss Kathy Dreith, and on hand to help them celebrate were Mrs. Burns and the children, of course, Kathy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Dreith, and her sister, Miss Christie Dreith.

Saying good-bye to visitors on Monday were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hansen. Their guests, who had been visiting in Lincoln for a week and a half were their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Tegley of St. Ann, Mo.

During their stay Mrs. Tegley, the former Velana Hansen, was the guest of honor at a baby shower. Hostesses for the get-together, which took place on Tuesday, July 15 were Mrs. Hansen and Mrs. Dale Shoemaker who entertained at the home of Mrs. Hansen.

It would appear from the recent activities of Lincoln residents that the summer vacation season is far from over — This summer, as is usually the case, there have been numerous vacations that merit the designation "combined business and pleasure trip." We must admit that that is probably the most pleasant way to get things done.

Returning last Saturday from just such a trip were Eastborough residents Mr. and Mrs. Dennis L. Hurtz. Mr. and Mrs. Hurtz left Lincoln on Sunday, July 13 for Columbus, Ohio; and while they were gone, their children, Beth and Danny, were guests at the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Schafer.

IN A PARIS HOTEL

The hotel lobby of a Paris hotel was packed Sunday evening, and among those who were there and watching the moonlanding were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith — their daughter, Laurie, and their son Barton who were completing a stay of several weeks in Europe.

There were other Americans who watched; many, many French people as well as British and other visitors from other countries.

To Mr. and Mrs. Smith and the young Smiths the eagerness with which the spectators watched, the concern they expressed for the men, and the exclamations of joy when the mission was accomplished, was a warm one-world feeling.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith and their children motored through Italy, Germany and, of course, France. They boarded plane for home Monday morning and were back in Lincoln Monday evening.

Speaking of travelers who recently have returned from abroad brings to mind Dr. Ordella Geisler who returned home earlier this month after having joined the Smith foursome for three weeks of touring Europe.

You already know that Mr. and Mrs. John H. Ames are home after a month in England — We suggest that the next time you see Mrs. Ames ask her about the attractive and most becoming hair style. It's quite a story — delightful and interesting.

MISS DEBORAH KEHM

This morning Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kehm make announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Deborah, to Sgt. Ronald Jay Weingarden, USMC, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Weingarden of Southfield, Mich.

The wedding will take place on Friday, Sept. 12.

Bride-Elect Is Honored

Late summer bride-elect Miss Carolyn Coleman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Coleman of Ainsworth, was guest of honor at a prenuptial courtesy which took place yesterday evening at the home of Mrs. Les Thompson. Co-hostess was Miss Pamela Thompson, and during the party, friends of the soon-to-be bride presented her with a one gift china shower.

The marriage of Miss Coleman, who is a graduate of the Bryan Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, and Jerry Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Davis of Fairbury will be an event of early September.

Is Music Dead?

BY HAROLD C. SCHONBERG

(c) New York Times Service

New York — Repeat a thing often enough and some people will end up believing it. Larry Austin, the composer, and editor of source magazine, in an article in the New York times two weeks ago, once again preached the gospel that many of his fellows have been sounding for the last few years. Music is dead. Alienation between composer and audience is now complete, to the point where even performers are hostile. Creative music today has to retreat into a subculture and be judged only by members of the specific subculture. An artist should have no goals, and novelty is the only criterion. If an audience actually likes a new piece of music, it only goes to prove that the music is no good. Every concert is a funeral, every piece a coffin.

But because Austin says this does not necessarily make it so. After a while his diatribe degenerates into a steady whine of self-pity and, like Alice, he almost drowns in his own tears. Nobody understands him, therefore he has to retreat into a different kind of world.

It is a childish and self-indulgent attitude, one that refuses to admit any possibility that the rest of the world might conceivably have a point of view. One would have more confidence in the remarks of Austin and others of his school had they in the last few years come up with concrete results that supported some of their theories. They are great on theory, especially the theory of a listener's physical involvement in the music. But they produce a music that is much more a sociological than an artistic phenomenon: a music that in essence is dada, with very little new in it except the applied electronic technology. It is all very well to say that music is dead. It is something else to replace it with a living music, and that these boys have not done.

So having failed to get much of an audience, they lash about, blame the public, hold services over the corpse of music, and go off to practice their arcane art where they will not be distracted by the ignorance of listeners.

It is very easy to criticize the Establishment, which can stand any amount of criticism. It's all very well to look for new kinds of musical expression and to take advantage of any new technology. There never has been a time in history when an avant garde was not criticizing the Establishment. But criticism has to be supported by accomplishment, not by games. The big figures take on the world and conquer it. They do not petulantly retreat into their own artistic ghetto.

The very fact that there is such alienation between today's musical avant garde and the audience strongly suggests that it is the composer and not the public who is at fault. For if an international audience strongly, overwhelmingly, rejects the product of a school of music, and keeps on rejecting it despite plenty of exposure, only one conclusion can be drawn. The music is not very good.

Physical involvement, one-note nirvanas, music as ritual — phooey. These are only smokescreens to hide creative poverty. "As an artist," Austin writes, "I have no goals." Perhaps he has no goals because he has nothing to say. Or perhaps Terry Riley dwells for an hour on a single note because he knows a good thing when he sees it. But it is not art because he says it is art. It is anti-art because it abdicates the prime responsibility of a creative mind — to manipulate materials in an intensely personal and original manner so that a high degree of expressive communication is achieved.

Anyway, in the last paragraph of his article, Austin rather overturns the buggy in which his reasoning is carried. After spending much time on the death of music, he then indicates that with young people music is not so dead, after all. Young people can even relate to "museum music." (What is museum music? Bach's "Art of Fugue?" Beethoven's "Grosse Fuge?" Wagner's "Ring?" Schoenberg's Third Quartet? Anything written before 1969?) His argument is that young people today can use the past to create a music of the future. It is an exciting concept — until one stops to think that young people have been doing that very thing for the last couple of thousand years or so.

ABBY: your excuse is good but behavior is wrong

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have been married nearly 30 years. We have grown children who all have families of their own. It seems that over the years I have lost my wife to our children. All her time is spent with this daughter or that son and their families, who all live within 20 miles of us. She has made a regular career out of "sitting" every evening with one of her grandchildren.

Night after night I have sat in my den alone watching television. My wife gets home about midnight or a little after, at which I am already in bed.

My wife insisted I go out and enjoy myself, so I took her advice which led to meeting a beautiful 51-year-old widow. We are compatable in every way. In short, we have fallen in love. Now I'm not lonely anymore and neither is this widow.

My problem is, am I doing the right thing? How can I tell my wife about this affair? She doesn't suspect a thing as I'm always home before she is.

DISILLUSIONED

DEAR DISILLUSIONED: If you want what sounds like a "good excuse" for your affair, you have one. But that doesn't make it right.

DEAR ABBY: My wife spoon-fed our son until he was nearly five years old. He is nearly 16, and she is still "babying" him and catering to his every whim.

Unfortunately he is our only child so she has been able to devote her entire life to being a "good" mother to him.

Her excuse, "He will be going into the service pretty soon and I want him to enjoy life at home while he can."

The day he was eligible to drive a car she bought him one with her "savings." He has always been the best dressed kid in Highland Park, Illinois, and he's so spoiled you can smell him in Kenosha, Wisconsin.

He is smart, but he's lazy, and barely makes his grades even with tutoring.

My question: If my wife decides to listen to a competent family counselor, can this kid be saved? Or do you think it's too late?

HIS FATHER

DEAR FATHER: It's never too late. The word from here is "try."

Opening lead — jack of clubs.

In many hands declarer cannot tell at the outset how he will eventually fare. The chief reason for this is that the outcome usually depends on how the defenders' cards are distributed.

There are other hands where the outcome is a foregone conclusion, because declarer sees at once that he is either sure to make the contract or that he cannot make it, regardless of the lie of the opposing cards.

In today's hand, if declarer is on the ball, he can forecast the outcome of the hand. The slam cannot be defeated if he plays correctly, no matter how the cards are divided.

He wins the club lead with the king and sees that 12 — perhaps 13 — tricks may be made by attempting finesses in spades and hearts. However, he also notes that if both finesses fail, the contract is down one. He therefore shapes his play so as to overcome the possibility of West's having both kings.

He draws a round of trumps, cashes the ace of clubs, and ruffs a club. Another trump to dummy permits him to ruff dummy's last club.

The stage is now set for an endplay. After returning to dummy with a trump, he leads a spade. When East follows low, South plays the nine. He does not expect the nine to win, but he knows that when it loses to West the hand is over.

No return can now defeat the slam. West must lead a spade or a heart, thanks to the elimination of his clubs, and South automatically makes the rest.

Note that East cannot frustrate South's scheme by playing the jack on the spade lead from dummy. Declarer simply covers with the queen to produce the same winning position.

The point is that South does not stake the outcome of the hand on the mere hope or expectation that East has one of the missing kings. He completely eliminates the element of luck.

School Budget Attracts Little Comment

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

A request for increased service and a compliment for the entire school system were the only citizen comments at the Lincoln Board of Education's public hearing on its 1969-70 proposed budget.

Only 10 persons in addition to the school administrative staff attended the short public hearing session.

Mrs. Carl W. Taylor asked about the possibility of establishing a special education class for junior high age students at Pound Junior High next year.

Mrs. Taylor said she felt that it would be best for all special education students to attend classes in the same schools that their nieghborhood friends attend. Having to transport children to other schools because no class exists for the special education students at the regular attendance center is also a hardship on the family, she pointed out.

Her son will be assigned to classes at Everett Junior High next year, a distance of "nine or ten" miles, the board was told.

If it would not be possible to provide a special education class at Pound "where there would be enough students in the area to fill at least one class," Mrs. Taylor requested that the school district provide transportation to the junior high age students.

All special education students at the elementary level are transported to attendance centers.

Supt. John Prasch noted that the operation of special education programs in the district will be examined in detail during the summer. He also outlined some of the new programs being added for the special education students, such as an agreement with the State Department of Education in providing vocational counselors.

Prasch also pointed out that the transportation budget has been increased "in anticipation of providing better service," Whether the better service would include transportation for junior high age students has not been decided yet, he said.

Charles Thone declared that he has been "tremendously satisfied with the Lincoln school system."

He gave the board members an emphatic "thank you" for their operation of the district.

Earlier Tuesday members of the Chamber of Commerce tax and education committees had been briefed on the budget proposals.

Supt. John Prasch outlined various anticipated changes in school district receipts and proposed increased expenditures.

A total general fund budget of $19,820,569, up some $2 million from the 1968-69 budget of $17,921,251 will be recommended to the school board at its noon meeting next Tuesday, according to Prasch. The total mill levy for all funds is expected to increase about 4.5 mills, assuming an assessed valuation of $300 million, he said.

Work-Training Plan Has Higher Enrollment

Washington (UPI) — The Labor Department reported enrollment in work-training program during May rose 1,943 to total 405,763.

The enrollment showed a one-year increase of 104,827, including 63,000 participating in the new jobs and work incentive programs.

Board Hears Goal Plans For Schools

Objectives of the Lincoln school district administrative staff for the 1969-70 school year will range from improving registration procedures for the adult courses to developing a long-range building program.

Some 25 general goals, with numerous specific plans, were presented to the Lincoln Board of Education Tuesday night as the beginning of a "management by objectives" method of operation.

Dates for completion or specific progress on the goals will be determined soon, Supt. John Prasch told the board.

No action was taken on the proposed objectives by the board. However, board members had participated in a series of informal discussions with the administrative staff in determining the general objectives.

Among the year's objectives are:

—Revision of the summer school plan.

—Enlarging the scope of advising groups to existing programs.

—Improving the form and procedure of teacher evaluation.

—Expanding the recruiting effort for a broader base for staff selection.

—Developing an administrative structure that gives the vocational-technical school visible independence.

—Taking initial steps for accreditation of vocational school programs.

—Establishing a program in graphic arts in the vocational school.

—Reclassifying the clerical employes and revising salary schedules.

—Develoing a handbook for substitute teachers.

—Establishing a more clearly defined framework of control within which teachers, consultants, directors and principals will know and be accountable for their respective responsibilities.

—Strengthening in-service programs for operations and maintenance employes, clerical workers and other employes.

—Performing various feasibility studies about food services and maintenance work.

In other action the board:

Mrs. Helen Weber, a school nurse in the Lincoln district since 1959, was appointed supervisor of nurses by the school board.

Board members defeated 3-3 the acceptance of the bid of Arbor Press to print yearbooks for Lincoln High and Lincoln Northeast next year which defeated the motion.

Associate Supt. Dr. Robert Den Hartog had recommended acceptance of the Arbor bid, the lowest submitted, for two of the school yearbooks after receiving the approval of the two school yearbook advisors, principals and other school personnel.

Board members Don Biehn, Robert Magee and Robert Wekesser voted against the recommendation. Wekesser earlier had protested awarding the contract to Arbor because the company has never produced a yearbookd.

The bid of O. K. Electric Co. of $19,000 to replace fire alarm systems in four schools was rejected by the board, upon Den Hartog's recommendation. Hartog indicated the bid was higher than the cost of school maintenance personnel doing the work. Board members directed Prasch to determine whether the change in systems is mandatory under city and state fire codes.

British, Russians Plan Prisoner Exchanges

London (AP) — The British government has agreed to trade two Americans convicted of spying for the Soviet Union in exchange for at least three prisoners jailed by the Socie ts, a well-informed British source said Tuesday night.

The Americans are Morris and Lola Cohen, alias Peter and Helen Kroger. They were sentenced to 20 years in prison by a British court in 1961 for filtering allied naval secrets to Moscow.

The informant said one of the three persons to be released by the Soviets is Gerald Brooke, a London lecturer sentenced to five years in prison in 1965 on a charge of subversion, and under the threat of being retried for espionage.

Two Britons Known

The only other Britons known to be in Soviet hands have been identified only as Parsons and Lorraine, imprisoned for trafficking in drugs. It was not immediately known, however, whether they were to be involved in the prisoner swap.

An official announcement of the British-Soviet arrangement is expected Thursday.

It will climax weeks of secret negotiations that came to a head during the past five days in which Soviet Amfassador Nikhail N. Smirnovsky conferred six times with senior officials at the foreign office.

Details Not Disclosed

Details of the Cohens' release were not disclosed. It was assumed they would be released in strict secrecy.

The Cohens were jailed as aides of Gordon Lonsdale, the Soviet master spy who was handed back to Moscow in exchange for Maynard Wynne, who had been accused of spying for Britain.

After their trial, they were named in the United States as implicated in the Col. Rudolph Abel spy scandal. They since have sought to establish their nationalities as Polish.

Witch Doctor Given 2 Years For Homicide

Bulawayo, Rhodesia (AP) — A witch doctor was sentenced Tuesday to two years in prison for culpable homicide.

The High Court was told that in an attempt to cure a 38-year-old woman, Timothy Ndholuvu held her head under water in a river until she died.

Judge Julian Greenfield said Ndholuvu had been careless with his patient.

Strong ICC Head Urged

Washington (AP) — President Nixon asked Congress Tuesday for authority to appoint a strong executive to head the Interstate Commerce Commission, the nation's oldest and largest regulatory agency.

Claiming overhaul of the 82-year-old ICC is long overdue, Nixon said the commission's work is hampered by lack of continuity and lack of leadership under the present system.

The current chairman of the 11-member commission, Democrat Virginia Mae Brown, quickly gave her "wholehearted support" to the President's proposal.

Under Nixon's plan, the president would designate the chairman from among its 11 members. Under the current system the chairmanship is rotated annually.

The President also proposed that the administrative powers of the chairman be greatly strengthened instead of allowing the authority to be dispersed among the commissioners.

Mrs. Brown, an appointee of former President Lyndon B. Johnson and head of the agency since January, said she was speaking in her role as a member, and not as the chairman, in endorsing the proposed reorganization.

Established in 1887 with five members, the ICC was expanded in 1920 to 11 commissioners and continues to exercise broad jurisdiction over 17,000 railroads, truckers, express companies and freight forwarders.

The commission has come under increasing criticism recently from Congress and other groups for allegedly failing to pursue aggressive enforcement policies.

U.S. Accepts In Principle Soviet Consulate Exchange

© The New York Times

Washington — The United States has accepted in principle a Russian proposal to open a Soviet consulate in San Francisco and an American consulate in Leningrad.

The State Department sent an aide memoire to the Soviet Embassy Friday, U.S. officials said Tuesday, outlining American proposals for the consulate facilities and functions to be exchanged and delineating the consular districts in which each mission would operate.

This note was a formal reply to a Soviet proposal of last Aug. 13, repeated orally by Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin at one of his first official meetings with the Nixon administration, a board discussion with Secretary of State William P. Rogers on March 8.

Barring any political reverses, however, the two countries could be operating their consular missions within a year, for the first time since 1948, when both governments started cracking down on alleged espionage activities in the Cold War.

Since then, consular functions — the issuing of visas, commercial arrangements and such — were performed only at the embassies in the capitals.

Welcome Urged

Jakarta (UPI) — The governor of this Indonesian capital, Maj. Gen. Ali Sadikin, asked the city's 4.5 million people to prepare a rousing welcome for President Nixon when he arrives here Sunday. He said the mission was particularly significant because it is the first to Indonesia by an American president since Indonesia achieved independence 24 years ago.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

A warm day in London town. We went over to Harrod's who outfit anybody from a new mother to a Rajah's safari. (This includes a modest tent hiding an oversized toilet seat with a bucket beneath. An overweight Rajah broke the seat, got wedged in the bucket in Darkest Africa and — well, "For Indian potentates they are—ah—built now to stand the strain of 40 stone."

That's more than 500 pounds, mate. Book with Harrod's and go to Africa without fear.

In Piccadilly Circus, the hippies sit around the statue of Eros. It is enclosed by iron fencing. The lights advertising Bovril and Guinness flashing and revolving in psychedelic patterns.

The hippies are inside the fence. Bearded. Long-haired. Dressed as cowboys and Indians and Eastern gurus. Eating wheat germ sandwiches. Playing guitars.

They keep an eye on the square world outside their fence.

Piccadilly used to be the hunting grounds of the paid girls — the Piccadilly Commandos. One of them hustled me this afternoon as I walked toward the Haymarket.

"Like to see the art gallery, luv?" she said. "I could be good company for yer."

"Sorry," I said. "The Duchess of Mayfair has me afternoon booked. You'll have to wait your turn."

The London journalists are having a go at our new ambassador, Walter H. Annenberg. (Mr. Annenberg being a Philadelphia publisher no doubt wishes he had his paper over here to have a go at them.)

American newspapermen have a great disdain for notes in shorthand. Consequently papers often disagree on what was said.

Not so the British journalists — you can't get a job unless you can take down the exact quotes.

So all English newsmen got it exactly when the Queen asked the ambassador where he was living while the official residence in Regents Park was being done over.

The ambassador slid through this: "In the embassy, subject of course to some discomfiture as a result of a need for elements of refurbishment."

The British press took off and hasn't let it alone.

Bill Haines, the Hollywood decorator, is redoing the ambassador's home.

The embassy dominates lovely old-fashioned Grosvenor Square. A boxy office building. An enormous screaming eagle on top.

Harrod's, up to the minute, has put in a mod clothing shop. Miniskirts and psychedelic colors while the Rolling Stones shriek of love in potted bloom from hi-fi speakers.

London girls are miniskirted up to the capsize point.

Some carry it off. Most of them don't.

The miniskirt needs the legs of a chorus girl. Alas, the great number of chicks are only built for ground transportation. Serviceable, but legs by Steinway rather than Chippendale.

But the girls have built-in confidence. Legs are it and legs they show.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Piccadilly Commando is gone. The new breed is motorized. They sit in parked cars. Toot the horn when a live one passes by.

They put their cards on the bulletin boards of wicked Soho.

"French girl desires to give language lessons."

The gambling rooms of Curzon Street and Park Lane go at night as big as Las Vegas. And much more dressy — Tuxedos and evening gowns are the thing.

☆ ☆ ☆

The weather has been fine in London. Warm as a bride's blush. The Piccadily girl followed me up the street.

"Take a chance," she urged me. "What's life unless you take a chance, I sy." "I would," I said, "but the duchess's a fair terror. Ta ta,' I said. "Ta, then," she said.

Senators Pass Ombudsman Bill

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

On the strength of a last second vote from Sen. Florence Reynolds of Omaha, the Legislature Tuesday approved legislation establishing an ombudsman.

The count was 25-15, with 25 votes required to enact the bill.

Miss Reynolds called in the 25th vote by voice a moment before announcement of the tally. She said she had voted aye on the machine vote, but her green light failed to work.

Prior to receiving final approval, LB521 was stripped of the emergency clause when the measure fell seven votes short of the 33 affirmative votes required to give the proposal immediate effect. The count was 26-14.

Creates New Office

LB521, creating a state ombudsman in the form of a new Office of Public Counsel, will become effective three calendar months after the Legislature adjourns if Gov. Norbert Tiemann signs the bill.

Sen. Loran Schmit of David City, a freshman lawmaker, is sponsor of the ombudsman plan. Schmit has told his colleagues that the average citizen needs help in dealing with an increasingly complex state government.

The ombudsman would serve as a clearing house for citizen complaints, he has pointed out.

Hawaii is the only other state to adopt an ombudsman plan. The ombudsman is a governmental innovation of the Scandinavians, one which has only recently begun to receive attention in the U.S.

The ombudsman would be appointed to a six-year term by the Legislature and salaried at a level established by the Legislative Council's executive board. He could be removed from office only for cause, and only by a two-thirds vote of the members of the Legislature.

Ombudsman To Investigate

The ombudsman would investigate citizen complaints concerning administrative actions of state government, or initiate inquiries on his own.

Administrative agencies are directed to cooperate with him, and he is armed with subpoena powers in order to perform his assignments.

After investigation, the ombudsman reports his conclusions and recommendations to the agency involved.

Since the bill cannot take effect until sometime this winter, and the ombudsman must be appointed by the Legislature, it would appear that the measure would not become operative until 1971 when lawmakers would be back in session.

The vote to enact:

For: Bloom, Burbach, Danner, Duis, Elrod, Keyes, Klaver, Knight, Mahoney, Marvel, Moulton, Moylan, Nore, Orme, Pedersen, Proud, Reynolds, Schmidt, Simpson, Skarda, Syas, Waldo, Waldron, Warner, Ziebarth.

Against: Batchelder, Budd, Clark, Craft, Hanna, Harsh, Hasebroock, Holmquist, Kennedy, Kokes, Robinson, Stull, Wallwey, Wenzlaff, Wylie.

Not Voting: Carpenter, Carstens, Johnson, Kremer, Luedtke, Schreurs, Swanson, Whitney, Wiltse.

Stock Market's Loss Is Sharp

New York (AP) — A small, early advance flickered out quickly Tuesday, and the stock market dived sharply lower, carrying the widely watched Dow Jones industrial average to the lowest it has been since March 1968.

The early upside flurry, in which the DJI gained 1.61 in the first half-hour of trading, was attributed to investor enthusiasm over the Apollo 11 moon mission. But the market turned then and headed down.

At the end, the Dow industrial was off 11.90 at 834.02, a new low for the year. The previous 1969 closing low was set July 15 at 841.13. The close was the lowest since the DJI reached 831.54 on March 26, 1968.

Oil and oil-related issues generally showed losses. Analysts said the softness in some of these issues reflected concern over a House Ways and Means Committee proposal to reduce the oil depletion allowance to 20 per cent from 27½ per cent.

Motors were lower. Chrysler, which has reported a sharp drop in second-quarter earnings, was off 2⅞ at 37. General Motors was off 1¼ at 74⅜.

American Airlines was the most active issue on the New York Stock Exchange on 194,400 shares. It gained ⅛ to 24⅞. American has been awarded a trans-Pacific route from the United States to the South Pacific, New Zealand and Australia.

Companies connected with the Apollo moon trip generally showed gains in early trading, but these largely faded as trading continued.

Volume was 9.78 million shares, compared with 8.60 million Friday.

Of 1,558 issues traded, 1,042 declined, and 330 advanced. There were 3 new highs for the year — posted by Eckerd Drugs of Fla., McQuay-Norris, and Transcon Lines when issued — and 291 new lows.

The Associated Press 60-stock average lost 3.7 to 296.3 — a new low for the year — with industrials off 5.8, rails off 2.0, and utilities off 1.4. This is the lowest the AP average has closed since the 294.7 of Jan. 4, 1967.

Besides concern over the oil-depletion allowance, analysts said the market also was weighed down by other uncertainties, such as the income-tax surcharge extension, indications of a slowdown in business activity, and no apparent progress toward peace in Vietnam.

Steels, electronics, utilities, metals and chemicals mostly were lower.

There were 39 blocks of 10,000 shares or more traded on the big Board, compared with 53 Friday.

On the American Stock Exchange, the index lost 33 cents to $26.77. Of 1,024 issues traded, 7,000 declined and 167 advanced.

Volume was 3.32 million shares, compared with 3.22 million Friday.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Government Role Concepts Expand Since Jefferson

By Merryle Stanley Rukeyser

MERRYLE RUKEYSER

Inflation Continues

Concepts of the role of government in the fate of people have expanded greatly since the early days of the Republic when Thomas Jefferson observed that that government is best which governs least.

Now there is bipartisan assumption that through fine tuning government planners can keep the national economy perpetually on an even keel.

Thus the Nixon Administration has continued the belated battle against inflation started by the Johnson Administration.

But perhaps President Nixon is too polite in going along with the premise that the Kennedy-Johnson Administrations were free of guilt in the matter of accelerating inflationary trends.

As a matter of fact, President Johnson's announcement that he, like President Coolidge, did not "choose to run," was unrelated in the popular mind to economic errors and was ascribable to the cavalier manner in which Mr. Johnson conducted the Vietnamese War.

Mr. Nixon could direct away from himself some of the popular wrath incidental to the pains of being deflated by fiscal and monetary restraints if he would spell out clearly the causes of the trouble.

Advisers Erred

The economic advisers of Presidents Kennedy and Johnson erred in going way beyond the recommendations of Lord John Maynard Keynes, the poet laureate of soft money. Keynes advocated unbalanced governmental budgets only in times of severe unemployment and recession.

Thereafter in recovery periods, Keynes proposed a reversal, with budgetary surpluses. But in the eight years of Democratic rule, there were planned budgetary deficits during periods of recovery and expanding employment in the desire to quicken economic growth.

Thus inflation was blueprinted, and, after the Johnson Administration escalated the war in Vietnam, it finally got scared at the inflationary consequences of profligate government spending.

Now there is a time lag between the prescription of the medicine and the hoped for cure.

Credit Reduced

But toughness is drastically reducing the rate of credit expansion and planning by the Administration of a modest budgetary surplus have already been resultful in reduced housing starts, hesitation in capital expenditures, a fall-off in demand recently for automobiles, and chaos in the security markets — not to speak of unprecedentedly high interest rates.

Like Mr. Johnson, Mr. Nixon, having changed his mind, wants to use continuation for a limited time of the surtax as an anti-inflation tool. Meanwhile, spokesmen for the Democratic majority in the Senate are backing and filling as to whether to act promptly on the President's recommendation.

The rationalization for the dragging of feet is that majority spokesmen want to link temporary extension of the surtax with permanent tax reform. Tax reform, though long overdue, is far from an anti-inflationary device.

Meanwhile, instead of losing his timing, the President could shorten the period of imposed hardship by reenforcing anti-inflation measures with an immediate substantial reduction of federal spending through postponing non-essential items. This would stop Government from competing with consumers, businessmen and others for scarce men and materials.

Such prudence would give the Administration discretion later to reverse the downswing when and if in its judgment the battle against inflation has been won, and thus provide against the threat of overkill. Already the hysteria in securities indicates that inflationary thinking and excess public confidence are changing.

Inflation is more than rising prices. The inflationary curse has deteriorated the attitude toward work of some. It is desirable to show that the battle against poverty is promoted by productivity, not by soldiering on the job.

The sooner the punitive measures can be wisely eliminated the better.

Confidence is fragile and cannot be turned on and off like a water faucet.

The specious cult of government economic planning is suspect. Government should provide a healthy environment rather than try through manipulation to interfere with the citizen's freedom to make decisions.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self addressed envelopes should be sent in care of this newspaper. Questions of general interest will be handled in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

Most Cattle Classes Are Fully Steady

Omaha (AP) — Omaha fat cattle prices were mostly steady Tuesday on moderate supplies

Action improved in later stages after opening rather slow as buyers waited developments in the beef trade.

Initial prices in the Omaha area were steady, however, late mid-afternoon reports from Chicago were carrying 50 cent lower prices on steer and heifer carrcasses.

High-choice and prime steers scaling 1,075-1,251 lbs moved at 30.85-31.40 with the heavyweights at the top ticket.

Cow prices ruled weak to 25 lower as wholesale cow beef prices posted a drop of around 50 cents.

Hog prices were steady to 25 higher in active dealings on continued moderate supplies.

Lambs were steady to 25 lower. Choice and prime newcrops returned 29.00-29.75, good and choice drifted downward to 28.00.

Grain Futures Under Pressure

Chicago (AP) — Grain futures prices came under liquidating pressure on the Chicago Board of Trade Tuesday, influenced by generally favorable weather for new crop growth and expiration of the July options.

Trade was fairly active on the opening, at noon when the July options expired, and at the close. Corn and soybeans futures came under early selling pressure on reports that precipitation in the next few days might not be too heavy and that crops could be expected to benefit from sunshine.

At the close, wheat was unchanged to 1½ cents a bushel lower, July 1.26; corn was ½ to 3¼ cents lower, July 1.26½; oats were ⅛ lower to 1⅞ cents higher, July 64½; rye was ½ to ¾ lower, July 1.11½; and soybeans were 1 cent lower to ⅜ higher, July 2.67.

NU Fans Beware

Nebraska football fans who would like to continue living way up there on cloud nine for a couple more months are advised to steer clear of newsstands this summer.

They'll find nothing but sad news in those pre-season football publications that a couple of years ago made Husker faithful so happy.

If the KU poll released last week wasn't enough to temper victorious thoughts, the next listings to cross our desk should do the job.

NU Fifth In Big Eight

Bill Sims of the Kansas City Star, doing the Big Eight yarn for Street and Smith's Football Yearbook, tabs the Huskers for a fifth place finish in the league.

Sims puts the Huskers behind Missouri, Oklahoma, Colorado and Kansas State in that order and ahead of Kansas, Iowa State and Oklahoma State.

And if that news isn't sad enough, you can flip to the back where they rate whether you're the favorite or the underdog in each game.

On that chart, the Huskers come up with a 3-6-1 record, being favored over only Kansas, Oklahoma State and Iowa State with the Texas A & M clash rated a toss-up.

That means unless the Husker coaching staff can come up with some miracles, NU will lose to Southern Cal, Minnesota, Missouri, Colorado, Kansas State and Oklahoma.

And in case you don't have a schedule handy, that means the Huskers could open the season with four straight losses — to Southern Cal, Minnesota and Missouri, plus the toss-up to Texas A & M.

Encouragement Offered

However, Sims does offer some encouraging words in his brief rundown on the Huskers after the magazine has lowered your spirits beneath that bearskin rug in your living room.

"If the Huskers develop more offensive consistency to go with their always tough defense, coach Bob Devaney should have no trouble posting his eighth straight winning record this campaign," Sims pens.

But, whoops! He adds, "That's where the rub comes in though. Devaney claims offensive consistency demands solid quarterbacking and there was considerable emphasis placed on working with all candidates in spring drills."

Boggs A Little Nicer

Frank Boggs of the Daily Oklahoman, writing in the NCAA Football Guide, is a little nicer.

"In the Big Eight, it is easier to figure which teams won't win the crown than which one, or ones, will," Boggs writes. "Iowa State, Oklahoma State and Kansas State shouldn't, although there are kind things to say of each."

Now, get ready because here comes the encouraging words for Nebraskans as Boggs allows, "Nebraska surely will be better, but coach Bob Devaney must solve a quarterback puzzle.

"Nebraska finished 6-4 last season, but that's no longer good by Nebraska standards."

That's a look at a couple of outsiders' thoughts on the Huskers. There'll be more every week, but don't expect them to get much better.

All-Stars Postponed, Play Today

Washington (AP) — Baseball's 40th All-Star game was postponed until Wednesday afternoon when heavy thundershowers drenched Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Stadium Tuesday night.

Game time Wednesday is 12:45 p.m., CDT.

It was the first postponement in the history of the All-Star series although one game in 1952 in Philadelphia had been shortened to five innings because of rain and a 1961 game in Boston was washed out as a 1-1 tie after nine innings.

The postponement also dimmed chances that President Nixon would attend the game, as he was due to take off Tuesday night for the moon astronauts' splashdown in the Pacific Thursday.

The gates had been open for hours and the early birds of an expected crowd of 45,000 were on hand, huddling under the projecting upper deck.

Heavy rain soaked the outfield and formed puddles on the tarpaulin covering the infield while sharp lightning flashes lighted the sky and thunder rumbled It was a weird setting with the fans sitting in the darkness brightened only by the flashes of lighting.

The washout was a bitter blow for the baseball brass who had opened a gala centennial celebration Monday night with a spectacular dinner honoring the all-time all-stars.

The rugged early customers cheered when the electric scoreboard in right field lit up with the message: "Good evening. Welcome to the 40th All-Star game."

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn waited until 7:27 p.m., 12 minutes after the scheduled starting time, to announce that the game had been postponed because of the unplayable condition of the field.

Wednesday's starting pitchers will be the same pitchers who were slated to take the mound Tuesday night, Denny McLain of the Detroit Tigers and Steve Carlton of the St. Louis Cardinals.

McLain was a 31-game winner in 1968 and is 14-5 this season. Carlton has won 12 and lost five.

Kuhn: Worldwide Play Coming

Washington (AP) — Baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn predicted Tuesday that the game would be played between continents in the not too distant future. He could not make the same prediction for play between the American and National Leagues.

Kuhn also foresaw a change in the shape and structure of baseball — not in the playing field but in the makeup of the two leagues.

In a speech at the National Press Club, Kuhn said: "I think it is not inconceivable that we break up in more leagues."

Now two leagues of 12 teams each, he said it might be possible to develop three eight-club leagues or even four six-team leagues. Kuhn said his office is evaluating such proposals.

The commissioner said baseball, celebrating its 100th birthday during 1969, has created a great deal of excitement this year. He said the enthusiasm for baseball has extended to many foreign countries, especially in the Far East and Latin America.

"I see in Japan an enormous enthusiasm," he said. "Perhaps that enthusiasm pales that in America. I see it also in South and Central America.

"I also see it in Europe although I don't think it yet rivals cricket or soccer in England. But it's there in The Netherlands, France, Germany, and Italy. The game is developing and making its mark.

He said he sees intercontinental baseball developing in the Orient, particularly Japan, and in Latin America. "It's got to be coming," he said.

In answer to a question on whether he foresees interleague play, Kuhn replied: "That's sort of the bug-bear of my life."

He said the American League feels it would be desirous but that the National League does not. "That puts the commissioner where he often is — in the middle of the fence," he said. "And he has not leaned one way or the other."

Kuhn said interleague play will continue to be discussed "but it won't come in 1970."

The commissioner also attempted to dispel the notion, as cited in public opinion polls, that baseball is not as popular with young people as it once was.

"That notion is absolutely total baloney," he said. "I don't know of any sport that attracts the young in the vast numbers that baseball does. I see baseball as having no problem in that area."

Hyland Second At Mid Point

Dorothy Schwartzkopf, playing steady golf with only three bogies and one birdie, increased her lead over Jean Hyland in the Lincoln Women's City Golf Tournament Tuesday to six strokes.

Dorothy avoided trouble on the tight Lincoln Country Club course and came in with a two-over-par 78 for a 36-hole total of three-over-par 158. She opened with a one-over-par 80 at Holmes Park Monday.

Mrs. Schwartzkopf's only birdie of the day came at the 345-yard, par-5 fourth hole where she scrambled for the four, running in a two-foot putt after hitting her tee shot into the rough and finally reaching the green with a seven-iron third shot.

"I was hitting my irons well all day," Dorothy explained. "I was getting the ball close to the hole most of the time."

But there were also times when she had to scramble for pars, like at the 16th and 17th holes where she needed eight-foot putts to save par.

But she also missed a number of putts from the same distance for birdies.

Her bogeys all came on par-4 holes, at the 319-yard first, 316-yard ninth and 353-yard 18th.

Mrs. Hyland, the defending champion playing her home course Tuesday, continued to have putting problems for the second straight day.

She opened Tuesday's round by three-putting the first green and went from there to the 80, missing a five-footer that would have saved par after coming out of the sand trap on the 18th.

Christie Schwartzkopf, daughter of Dorothy, withdrew from the tournament after Tuesday's round, explaining she felt obligated to return to work.

"I have asked for next week off so that I can play in the state tournament at Grand Island," she explained, "But I'm just more or less skipping out on my boss this week and I think I ought to go back to work."

Christie shot an 85 Tuesday, but had four penalty shots added to that total for an 89 when it was discovered she had one too many clubs in her golf bag. The maximum is 14.

That leaves Lou Vermaas as the closest challenger to Dorothy and Jean and she is 23 strokes off the pace being set by Mrs. Schwartzkopf.

Barb Deurmeyer also widened her lead in the junior division with a second straight 106 for a 212 total, nine strokes in front of Pam Edwards, who had 113 Tuesday for a 221 total.

Schultz Goes Long Way With Short Stable

By KENT SAVERY
Star Sports Writer

Whether it's racing horses or telling "lies" to some young fellow, G. W. (Walter) Schultz is a hard man to beat.

In fact when he's "shooting the breeze" Walt is little short of a hurricane.

On the track the 80-year-old's record speaks for itself.

Schultz, who has raced horses at every Ak-Sar-Ben meeting since 1937, is making his initial appearance in Lincoln this year. And the veteran owner and trainer has made his debut impressive.

A triple winner at this year's Ak-Sar-Ben meeting, Schultz matched that performance in a single day last Thursday when Monty's Flash, Watchon and Me Go all greeted their owner in the winner's circle, giving him his second, third and fourth wins of the Fairgrounds meeting.

His Quilla Court had won the previous day.

"There aren't many people with no more horses than I've got that can win three races in one day," Schultz remarked proudly.

And he's right about that. Schultz has just eight runners in Lincoln.

They are runners, too. "We've only had one of eight out of the money so far," Schultz said prior to this third week of the meeting. And Monty's Flash owns the fastest six-furlong clocking of the first two weeks of racing with her 1:13 2-5.

Schultz, who usually heads for Cleveland after the Ak-Sar-Ben meeting, came to Lincoln primarily to help out his son Elmo.

Elmo has some young stock which he wanted to run in Lincoln, but Fairgrounds officials were reluctant to grant him stalls unless he had some proven runners.

The Fairgrounds people agreed to let Elmo test his maidens here if Walt would bring his stock to Lincoln, too. Walt consented and they were granted sort of a family stable, which also includes nine horses owned by Walt's son-in-law J. D. Taylor.

Schultz has some good claiming horses now, but many will remember him best as the owner of Butch K., a gelding who won numerous handicap events at Ak-Sar-Ben in the 1950's.

Schultz, who jokingly (I think) refers to his tales as "lies," recalls, "I had a horse named Butch K. that won more of the big Omaha races than any horse up to now. He died last November, just before his 20th birthday.

"Butch K. won over $132,000 during his 10 years of racing," Schultz said. "We've got two King's Plates, two Queen's Plates, and lots of Ak-Sar-Ben blankets and trophies that he won. If they'd had the kind of purses then as now, he would have been quite a horse."

Schultz was one of seven brothers in a family that moved to Oklahoma before it became a state and all but the oldest have been cowboys, Schultz relates.

"Five of my brothers rode for the Miller Brothers Wild West Show and Circus," Schultz said. "My brother Guy, who died in 1963, was a champion cowboy. In fact, he once bulldogged a buffalo," Walt says.

Of the seven brothers only Walt and his 87-year-old brother in Illinois — both non-smokers — are living. The other five — all smokers — died of lung cancer, Walt says.

Both a non-smoker and non-drinker, Walt figures clean living and plenty of activity have helped him live a long and happy life.

Although he's slowed down a bit since having a heart attack last year, Walt Schultz has no plans yet to quit racing.

"I could quit now and probably eat for the rest of my days," he says. "But I don't think that's good for an old man."

Aunt Priscilla Wins With Flash; Moonaire Flops

You would have thought my Moonaire was breathing moon air the way she quit in the eighth race at the Fairgrounds Tuesday.

Priscilla

Too bad I wasted $2 to win on her. Fortunately Monty's Flash lived up to her name, giving me a $6.20 return on my $2 place ticket in the sixth race.

The Flash boosted my spree fund, which started at $100, back up to $84.80.

Today I'll try $2 to win on Real Chance in the fifth and Wenga in the sixth.

Southeast Gets Jackson As New Swim Mentor

The high school swimming coach from 1969 state champion Creighton Prep, Jack Jackson, is coming to Lincoln.

Jackson, after compiling an 86-16 dual meet record in nine seasons at Prep, has been recommended for the coaching position at Lincoln Southeast. His appointment was confirmed as a routine item on Tuesday night's regular meeting of the school board.

Jackson replaces Don Copas who has accepted a similar position at Sioux City, Iowa, Central High.

DON COPAS

Creighton Prep was undefeated last winter and climaxed the season with an easy romp to the state title, the first in Prep's history. The feat was accomplished by Jackson even though the school is without a pool. His team had to travel daily to Creighton University for practice sessions.

In piling up 241½ points, 67 more than second place Omaha Westside, the Junior Jays had five individual champions and a winning relay team in the 11-event program.

Lincoln Southeast principal Wes Laudterback said that "we're very pleased to have Jackson join our staff. We appreciate the efforts of Don Copas, but not having him on our regular teaching staff (he commuted to Southeast from his position as an elementary school PE teacher) created some communication problems with the boys."

Jackson commented that "Southeast has had a long-standing tradition as far as swimming is concerned. They won the state title eight times in a row before Westside broke the string two years ago, followed by Prep's win last year. It isn't a matter of building a tradition. Just a matter of rallying everyone around and building up that desire again."

. . . ROOKIE SCORES ATOP MONTY'S FLASH

Ritura went wire to wire to score a four-length victory over Wind Tone in the featured seventh race at the State Fairgrounds Tuesday.

Ritura toured the six furlongs in 1:13, the fastest time of the meeting for that distance, and gave jockey Fred Ecoffey his third win of the day.

Monty's Flash outran Cadillac Red in the sixth, dashing the 5½ furlongs in 1:07 1-5, another meeting best.

E. R. DeJesus, an apprentice jockey from Puerto Rico, picked up his first win on a recognized American track in piloting Monty's Flash to victory.

Penny Play, who originally finished third in the sixth, was dropped to fifth behind Perry Gray and Dream Cadet for interference on the first turn.

Dies After Childbirth

Cincinnati (AP) — Mrs. Sharon Ann Corrales, wife of catcher Pat Corrales of the Cincinnati Reds, died Tuesday afternoon at Christ Hospital here shortly after giving birth to a boy. She was 27.

Shrine Profiles

LOU KING

Omaha Tech's Lou King, who will be playing for the North team in the Shrine Bowl all-star football game at NU's Memorial Stadium Aug. 23, hopes he'll be nearby if the South ball carriers bobble the ball.

King

Like every lineman, Lou loves to get his hands on the ball. In fact he remembers his biggest thrill in high school sports as the time he picked up a fumble during his sophomore season and ran it back 75 yards for a touchdown.

King was chosen Tech High's lineman of the year last fall. The six foot, 190-pound tackle will be wearing No. 65 when he plays for coach Hank Amend's Yankee team.

BRENT BOERKIRCHER

One of the eight players from Class B who will be playing for the South team in the upcoming Shrine Bowl all-star football game Aug. 23, is Cozad's Brent Boerkircher.

Boerkircher

Brent, a six-foot, 200-pound tackle, was an all-conference choice in both his junior and senior seasons, and was also a letterman in wrestling and track.

He'll wear No. 72 when he plays for coach Roland Carter's Rebel squad.

Boerkircher was treasurer of his senior class and plans on a study schedule in college that will lead to a law degree.

—FELLER HAS GOOD POINT—

Legends Rule All-Time Team

Washington (AP) — Is it really true that modern-day baseball players such as Willie Mays, Hank Aaron and Denny McLain are not the equal of the oldtime stars who played prior to 1940?

That is the almost inescapable conclusion that has to be drawn from the naming Monday night of baseball's all-time All-Star team, with only one player who has performed in the last quarter century — Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees — cracking the squad.

But it isn't the only conclusion.

"Legends build with time — they always do," says Bob Feller, the great Cleveland righthander and strikeout ace of the 1940s. "Legends probably are an asset when it comes to picking all-time teams.

"Legends were created much easier before television. from the selections, but it I'm not taking anything away isn't as easy for legends to grow in the television era. with players and not so awestricken.

"Where people used to rely on what they read about a player, they rely a lot more on their own contact these days. Television not only shows a player when he's going good, but when he's having a bad day."

Feller said he thought that was the main reason so many oldtimers were named to the all-time All-Star team at baseball's big banquet honoring the sport's centennial celebration — despite the fact it is generally acknowledged that today's athletes are bigger and stronger.

DiMaggio was the only post-1940 star to crack the team that listed Walter Johnson and Lefty Grove as the pitchers, Mickey Cochrane as the catcher, Lou Gehrig as the first baseman, Rogers Hornsby as the second baseman, Pie Traynor as the third baseman, Honus Wagner as the shortstop and Babe Ruth, Ty Cobb and DiMaggio as the outfielders.

This, despite the fact that in sports, where accurate measurements of athletic feats can be made — such as in track and swimming — modern day performers have shown how vastly superior they are in comparison with their forerunners.

Rasmussen Signs, Hurts Left Leg

Hempstead, N.Y. (AP) — The New York Jets signed veteran guards Pete Perreault and Randy Rasmussen of Kearney Tuesday and cut Earl Christy, a three-year-veteran who was a kickoff and punt return specialist.

Two players were injured in the American Football League club's practice at Hofstra University. Steve O'Neal, rookie punter and wide receiver from Texas A&M, suffered a slight tear in his left shoulder, and Rasmussen sustained a slight muscle pull in his left leg.

It was also disclosed that linebacker Carl McAdams, former Oklahoma star, suffered a bruised knee in a veteran-rookie scrimmage last Saturday.

Courses Undergo Changes

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf Tuesday ordered the fairways widened and the rough mowed at both municipal golf courses in an effort to speed up play.

"Get the rough down so they (golfers) don't have to look for balls," the mayor said at a hearing on budget requests from the City Park and Recreation Dept.

"It takes four to 4½ hours to get around the course and that is just too long," Schwartzkopf said. He said part of the delay is caused by golfers looking for balls in high weeds.

Schwartzkopf said his orders to alter the courses so more people can play had nothing to do with his recent decision on golf leagues.

The Council gave first round approval to a total $201,639 budget request for Holmes ($73,455), Pioneers ($100,843) and the Junior ($27,341) golf courses. Holmes and Pioneers were up $3,315 and $2,419 respectively, while the Junior course was down $4,086.

Also approved was a $2,000 request for the city's tennis courts and $123,483 for swimming pools.

President Is Acclaimed As Game's 'No. 1' Fan

. . . NEVER LEAVES UNTIL LAST MAN OUT

Washington (AP) — President Nixon, who said he never made the team, finally made it Tuesday. He was acclaimed by baseball as the game's No. 1 fan.

"Like those of us who never made the team, I have always stood in awe of those who made the team," the President said at a White House reception from members of baseball's All-Star teams in the Capital for their annual game at the Robert F. Kennedy Stadium.

The chief executive, admitting he had always been an intense fan and recalling names and incidents of years ago, had personal words for all of the baseball greats and sports writers, numbering around 400, who attended the reception.

"You are doing a great job with the youth in New York," he told Roy Campanella, the former Brooklyn Dodger catcher who was pushed through the receiving line in a wheelchair by his wife. Campanella was paralyzed in an automobile accident several years ago.

"Congreatulations, you are doing a wonderful job with Oakland — especially Reggie Jackson. You are teaching him to hit," Nixon said to Joe DiMaggio, the former Yankee outfielder who Monday night was honored as baseball's greatest living player.

"I will be watching you tonight," he said in an aside to Denny McLain, the Detroit Tiger pitcher.

Nixon was presented during the reception with a solid gold lifetime pass from Warren Giles, president of the National League.

"The way the market is going I'd better save this gold," he commented, drawing a big laugh.

Bowie Kuhn, commissioner of baseball, presented the President with a gold trophy similar to that awarded Monday night to baseball's time great players, living and all-time great players, living and dead, selected by vote of sports writers and broadcasters.

"This is awarded to you as the No. 1 baseball fan in America," Kuhn told the Preiident.

"I shall keep it and treasure it always in my library," Nixon responded.

Nixon said his advisers had suggested that he could leave in the fifth inning of the All-Star game in order to get an early start on his round-the-world trip.

"I said no," the President said. "I never leave in the middle of anything."

Nixon recalled that one of the earliest games he ever heard on the radio was in the 1929 World Series between the Philadelphia Athletics and the Chicago Cubs.

"I remember the Cubs had an eight-run lead and the Athletics came back to score 10 runs and win the game," he said. "Since then, I have decided never to leave a game before it is over. Anything can happen."

Nixon told his guests that he had found that sportswriters ultimately became top political writers and he mentioned particularly Bill Henry of the Los Angeles Times, Scotty Reston of the New York Times and Bob Considine, formerly of International News Service.

"If I had my choice," he said "I think the thing I most preferred to be was a sports writer."

Nixon, who was a substitute football player at Whittier College in California, has attended five regular season games this year and repeatedly upon leaving the stadium drops by the locker rooms to pass pleasantries with the players and the umpires.

"He is a real honest to goodness fan — no phony-baloney about him," said Ted Williams, the new Washington Senators' manager and former Boston Red Sox great. "He knows the players and he knows the strategy. He likes to drop by and chat about how the team is doing."

Mrs. Babe Ruth, widow of the New York Yankees star who was voted baseball's greatest player of all time, said the President told her that his wife had a picture and an autographed ball signed by Ruth which she treasured.

"The President is a wonderful baseball fan," Mrs. Ruth said.

Petrone Heads Sunset Lineup

Los Angeles (AP) — Petrone, the French-bred turf course star, heads a field of a dozen in the wind-up $106,950 Sunset Handicap at Hollywood Park today, concluding a thoroughbred meeting termed the most successful in California history.

The Hollywood Park meeting is expected to exceed $224 million in total handle, a state record. The previous mark of $211 million set here last year already has been exceeded. A year ago, the racing season was boosted to 75 days, an increase of 20 over previous sessions.

LAP Official Blasts Labor Dept.

Lincoln Action Program project director of the Neighborhood Youth Corps, Miss Claudia Robinson, blasted the U.S. Department of Labor for "murdering" the Lincoln youth corps program. The charge appeared in the newspaper of the anti-poverty agency.

Miss Robinson declared that "the way in which the Department of Labor is manipulating the Neighborhood Youth Corps program is proof that the DOL is neither interested in the goals of the program nor in the youth involved."

The Neighborhood Youth Corps (NYC) was established to provide jobs for boys and girls, 16-21 years of age, from low-income families. Students were paid with federal funds for working in positions at non-profit agencies such as the school district, LAP, Veterans Hospital and others.

Miss Robinson complained in her article that the department evidently "feels local participants are unaware of their problems and how they can better be solved. The federal office has permitted no program requests to "adequately meet" local needs since the original proposal was made.

According to Miss Robinson, the NYC funds granted to Lincoln for 1969 summer programs have not only dictated a cutback in the number of youth participants but also a 10-cent per hour reduction in salaries for the teenagers.

She contended that LAP was never informed by Labor officials that a "special contract", such as the one arranged with Omaha, would be necessary to keep the wages at the original rate.

Modifications in the local program dictated by the Labor Department, usually on a rush basis, show that "there is no concern with the quality of NYC," she claimed.

Miss Robinson also pointed out that the Lincoln NYC program had been "frozen" at times so that no persons could be enrolled, resulting in a loss of contact with many out-of-school youths who need the program.

In addition, she said, all youths 18 and older must be terminated by Aug. 31, 1969, according to Labor Department directives. "Other programs will be developed" to serve the older youths, LAP officials have been told.

Terry To Battle Spending

Scottsbluff (AP) — State Sen. Terry Carpenter declared open war Tuesday night on increased state spending.

Carpenter, who left the legislative session in Lincoln last week saying he was discouraged and "might never come back," told about 500 persons here Tuesday he was indeed going back and would spare no effort to prevent introduction of a supplementary budget bill.

Passage of a supplementary budget bill would require a 4% sales tax and a 20% income tax, Carpenter said.

Defeat of the supplementary bill would limit state spending to the level of the previous biennium under provisions of the main line budget bill, LB1421.

Carpenter said he did not think the state could operate on that amount of money. But he said the Legislature could be called back into session to correct the matter if experience showed the amount insufficient.

Carpenter's remarks came at a session with a group of his constituents at the Scottsbluff High School auditiorium.

One person asked why no one did anything about governmental spending and Carpetner responded:

"Do you know anybody who works harder or raises more hell down there than I do."

Mexico Obtains Drinking Water From Volcanoes

Mexico City (UPI) — Mexico City is tapping the two volcanoes that tower over its valley — for drinking water.

4 Cars Damaged In Gasoline Fire At Royal Motors

An early-morning fire caused considerable damage Tuesday to the Royal Motors garage at 2400 West O St., fire officials said.

Chief Fire Inspector John Gabarron said the fire apparently erupted when gasoline fumes were ignited by a water heater.

Mechanics had earlier removed the gas tank from a car and replaced it with a gallon container into which the gas line had been placed, Gabarron said.

The fire inspector said the container was left attached to the car after it had been driven into the garage, and the fumes later ignited when they reached the heater.

Fire officials said the car was completely destroyed, and three others badly scorched.

Space Director Hopes To Make Flight Himself

Space Center, Houston (UPI) — Fifty-five-year old Robert R. Bilruth, director of the Manned Spacecraft Center, is still optimistic about making his own space trip someday.

"I'm still hopeful that the next 10 years will see enough growth and technology so one doesn't have to be brought into the program when he's under 40 to be able to fly," Gilruth said.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
